SUMMARY OF CONTENTS.

Part I.

CENSUS STATISTICS.

As these statistics have been specially treated in separate reports, it is unnecessary to summarise them here, and only a few remarks on the figures which give some indication of the material condition of the country are required.

There were 714,707 villages, townships, and cities in India in 1881, and 43,532,035 inhabited houses. The villages, townships, and cities were in the proportion of 0·52 to each square mile of territory, and the houses in the proportion of 32 to each square mile. Bengal had much the largest number of villages, &c., these amounting to 248,706 and being at the rate of 1·59 to the square mile. The North-Western Provinces came next, with 81,084 villages, &c., or 0·99 to the square mile. In Oudh there was one village, &c., to the square mile of area in the province. These are the three most densely populated provinces in the empire, the number of persons to the square mile being 470 in Oudh, 426 in Bengal, and 400 in the North-Western Provinces. Cochin, indeed, shews a population of 441 to the square mile in an area of 1,361 square miles, but in this small parcel of native territory it is only the port which belongs to the British Government.

In Bengal the number of houses to the square mile was 67, the houses containing an average of 6·32 persons. The North-Western Provinces had 59 houses to the square mile, with an average of 6·82 persons to the house, and Oudh 85 houses, with an average of 5·51 persons. The average number of persons to each house for all India was 5·83.

Out of the male population of 129,941,851 contained in India, 52,029,098, or 40 per cent., are returned as engaged in agriculture; 7,248,475, or 5·6 per cent., were labourers; 3,027,958, or 2·33 per cent., were in the service of Government or members of professions; 2,489,516, or 1·9 per cent., were engaged in domestic service and occupations; 49,248,645, or 38 per cent., were returned as "independent and non-productive, and unspecified;" 3,238,734, or 2·5 per cent., were in commerce; and 12,659,425, or 9·7 per cent., were in industrial occupations.

Thus we find less than 12½ per cent. of the male population engaged in commercial and industrial pursuits, while 40 per cent. were directly engaged in agriculture, to which should be added probably the bulk of the labourers; and doubtless a large proportion of those returned in the "independent and non-productive" class were directly dependent on the land, though not actually employed in its cultivation.

The total area of the country in 1881 was 1,372,588 square miles; but the division into cultivable, cultivated and uncultivable land is so lacking in completeness, that it is not possible to say what relation these divisions bear to each other, except for some provinces.

Although there were altogether, in 1881, 714,707 towns and villages in India, in great part these are small collections of huts, hardly worthy of being even called villages. As many as 348,466 contained less than 200 inhabitants each, and 184,486 contained each a population varying between 200 and 500. Of towns, properly so called, the number is relatively very small for such a vast area. There were only 63 with a population exceeding 50,000, 123 with a population of from 20,000 to 50,000, and 388 with a population ranging between 10,000 and 20,000. In the first class of the 63, containing a population of upwards of 50,000 each, there were only 23 with a population exceeding 100,000, and of these 23 only 5 had population each of more than 200,000, namely, Bombay, Calcutta with its suburbs, Madras, Hyderabad in the Deccan with its suburbs including Secunderabad, and Lucknow. It is probable that Benares may have to be added to the list of towns containing over 200,000 inhabitants, for at the last census it was only 300 short of that number, and the city has increased largely in numbers of late years. In general the increase of the population of these large towns is noticeable, and in a few cases, such as Rangoon, quite remarkable. Some few towns fell off in population during the decade (Lucknow, Bhágalpur, Farukhabad, Mirzapur, and Monghyr); but whereas in 1871 there were only 45 towns in India with a population exceeding 50,000, the number had increased to 63 in 1881.

EMIGRATION.

The figures in these tables relate solely to emigration as carried on under the Emigration Laws, and take no account of the numbers who leave India as passengers in vessels, not having been recruited by Emigration Agencies for service in the Colonies; nor do they take account of the traffic in pilgrims, of whom small but uncertain numbers settle out of India. But both classes, pilgrims as well as native passengers who do not leave India as emigrants engaged for service, are trifling in number, and the recorded figures of emigration practically furnish the whole number of emigrants.

The total number of emigrants from India during the seven years 1879-80 to 1885-86 amounted to not more than 107,532, making on an average an annual exodus of 15,362 persons. The proportion to the population is inappreciable, amounting to only about ·06 per mille. And it cannot be said that any even of this very small number quit the country with the intention of permanently establishing their domicile elsewhere. On the contrary, every one of them hopes to return with his savings to his native place in a few years. The hope is not often realised, for the total number of persons who returned during the last seven years amounted to only 46,792—an average of 6,684 yearly, or about two-fifths of the number who left India. The mortality amongst these people is high in some of the Colonies to which they go, and of those who survive a substantial proportion elect to continue to work as free labourers in the colony after their term of indenture expires, and many of these never return to India. In Mauritius, for instance, there is now a considerable population of Indian settlers, and in Trinidad too the settled Indians are increasing in numbers.

Out of the whole number who emigrated in the seven years there were 67,460 men, 27,565 women, and 12,507 children, the proportion being: men 62·7 per cent., women 25·6 per cent., children 11·6 per cent.

Of those who returned to India, 28,439 were men, 10,227 women, and 8,126 children, being in the proportion of 60·8 per cent. of men, 21·9 of women, and 17·4 of children.

There are five places in India from which emigration may legally be carried on—Calcutta, Bombay, Madras, and the two French settlements of Pondicherry and Karikal. From Bombay emigration was stopped many years ago, and though the legal restriction has been removed recruiting has never been resumed. The port of Calcutta is the most convenient for the shipment of emigrants drawn from the impoverished masses of the thickly populated provinces of Oudh and Behar, and the great bulk of emigration work is done at this port. Of the 7,979 persons who emigrated from India last year, 1885-86, no less than 6,896 were shipped from Calcutta, of whom almost the whole number was from the North-Western Provinces, Oudh and Behar. From Madras only 1,083 were shipped. There was no emigration from Karikal and Pondicherry, either in 1884-85 or in the year following.

Part II—concluded.

EMIGRATION—concluded.

The destinations of last year's emigrants were as follows:—

To Demerara	4,771 persons.	7,979
To Fiji	1,552 „
To Trinidad	1,656 „

Emigration to Fiji commenced in 1882-83, when 922 emigrants were shipped. Since then 5,382 have been taken. To Réunion and Cayenne emigration has ceased under the orders of Government.

RAILWAYS.

At the end of 1885-86 there were 7,113¼ miles of State railways open for public traffic and 2,894 miles in progress. Of Guaranteed and Assisted lines, there were 4,574¼ miles open for traffic, and 364 miles in progress. In Native States there were 688 miles open for traffic, and 506¾ miles in progress. The total mileage of all railways was—

12,375½ miles open.
3,764¾ miles in progress.

The total earnings of the railways were ₹18,03,44,656, and their total expenses ₹8,94,52,833, which made 49·6 per cent. of the earnings, leaving a net profit of ₹9,08,91,823, of which ₹3,00,35,651 were contributed by the East Indian Railway alone. The net profits of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway were ₹1,80,47,220, of the Bombay-Baroda line ₹74,76,754 and the Rajputana-Malwa ₹78,61,109. These four lines with a total of 4,655 miles, not quite 38 per cent. of the whole open mileage, brought in nearly 70 per cent. of the aggregate net profits.

The total number of passengers carried on the lines has increased from 22,251,496 in 1873 to 77,108,789 in 1885. (These figures do not include season-ticket-holders.)

The number of tons of goods and minerals conveyed has increased from 4,084,748 in 1873 to 19,126,839 in 1885, and of live-stock from 448,928 head to 831,253 head.

The gross receipts from the passenger traffic rose from ₹2,38,45,825 in 1873 to ₹5,55,71,642 in 1885; and from the goods traffic the gross receipts were ₹4,61,48,630 in 1873 and ₹11,93,86,235 in 1885.

The gross receipts per mile on each of the Indian lines in 1885 were as follows:—

FORESTS.

In 1885-86 there were 49,474 square miles of forest demarcated and reserved by the State, as compared with 12,071 square miles in 1874-75. The work of demarcating and reserving forest tracts has been pushed on with great vigour during the last eleven years, and especially since 1877-78. In that year the demarcated area was only 18,113 square miles; in the following year (1878-79) it was raised by operations in the Central Provinces to 40,971 square miles. Those Provinces possess the largest area of reserved forest (19,434 square miles), and Bombay follows with 9,505 square miles. In Bengal there are 4,972, in British Burma 4,471, in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh 3,600, in Madras 1,813,* in Assam 2,332, in Berar 1,546, and in the Punjab 1,417 square miles.

Part V.

CHINCHONA CULTIVATION.

In the Government plantation in Sikkim there was, on the 31st March 1886, an area of 2,367 acres under cultivation, containing a little over 5 millions of trees, and there was in addition a stock of 370,003 seedlings and rooted cuttings in the nurseries available to be planted out. The outturn of bark collected during the year amounted to 205,410 lb. With the stock in hand at the commencement of the year there were 415,133 lb of bark available for manufacture during the year, of which 159,640 lb were issued to the Quinologist for manufacture and 100 lb sold to the Medical Department, the rest being stored. Of the febrifuge, 4,625 lb were produced at a cost of ₹12-11-2¼ per lb, and 118 lb of the superior crystalline febrifuge at a cost of ₹19-0-9½ per lb. The cost was again much in excess of the cost of previous years.

Of the trees in the plantation, much the largest proportion (2,932,000) still consists of Chinchona succirubra; but these are gradually giving place to the more valuable C. calisaya ledgeriana, of which there are now 1,325,118 trees permanently planted out. The hybrid chinchona numbers 572,100 trees. The other descriptions exist in small numbers only.

The Nilgiri Government plantations contained an area of 847 acres planted out, the number of trees at the end of 1885-86 amounting to 1,950,345, of which 1,159,386 were C. officinalis. The bark collected during the year amounted to 113,366 lb; 111,140 lb were sold at auction in Madras, while 2,800 lb were issued to the Madras Medical Department, a stock of 125,089 lb being left at the end of the year.

CHINCHONA CULTIVATION—concluded.

There is one other Government plantation at Thandoungyee in British Burma—a small one, containing only 62,610 trees, seedlings, and cuttings.

In regard to private chinchona plantations the information accessible is defective. What is known of them is that at the end of 1885-86 there were in—

	Acres.	Plants.	Yield of bark. lb
Bengal	1,200	1,313,740	18,103
Mysore	326	143,279	11,434

Part VI.

TEA CULTIVATION.

In giving the figures relating to tea cultivation in India for 1885, it will be interesting to compare them with those for 1875-76, the first year of the series entered in this volume:—

	1875-76.		1885.
	Acres.	Yield in lb.	Acres.	Yield in lb.
Assam and Cachar	87,307	20,028,890	197,510	53,617,020
Bengal	26,378	4,941,226	63,489	14,049,681
North-Western Provinces	4,363	631,182	8,493	1,520,109
Punjab	4,246	679,949	7,900	1,376,732
Madras	2,392	220,070	6,370½	938,963
British Burma	150	25,000	163	18,295
Total	124,836	26,526,317	283,925½	71,520,800

Thus within these eleven years the acreage under tea increased by 128 per cent., and the whole outturn increased by 170 per cent. nearly.

In Assam the principal planting districts are:—

	Acres.
Cachar	53,205
Sibságar	43,622
Sylhet	36,288
Lakhimpur	27,818
Darrang	18,125
Nowgong	11,606
Kamrup	6,321

In Bengal about three-fifths of the cultivation are found in the Darjeeling district, which had 38,499 acres under tea in 1885; Jalpaiguri had 17,348 acres; Chittagong 3,637; Lohardugga 2,932; and Hazaribágh 942 acres.

In the North-Western Provinces there were 4,930 acres in the Dún, the rest being in Kumaun and Garhwál (3,563 acres).

Part VI—concluded.

TEA CULTIVATION—concluded.

In the Punjab no tea is grown except in Kangra (7,900 acres).

In Madras there were 5,066 acres on the Nilgiris and 1,184 acres in Travancore. Elsewhere in that Presidency the industry is unimportant.

In Burma there is only one plantation of 13 acres in Tounghoo.

Part VII.

COFFEE CULTIVATION.

The figures are so defective that it is not possible to make any useful comparison with former years. In 1885 the whole area under mature plants was 186,326 acres and the entire yield only a little below 35 million pounds. The industry has made but slow progress for some time past, but the causes which have injuriously affected it in recent years are well known; and as the subject has been fully discussed in the reviews of the sea-borne trade of the country it is not necessary to return to it here. The acreage under mature coffee plant was thus distributed in 1884 and 1885:—

	1884. Acres.	1885. Acres.
Mysore	82,462	81,754
Madras	56,247	55,143
Coorg	42,300	43,000

Part VIII.

COTTON CULTIVATION.

The acreage under cotton is thus represented:—

	1877-78. Acres.	1883-84. Acres.	1884-85. Acres.
Hyderabad Assigned Districts	2,078,272	2,026,923	1,959,402
Bombay and Sindh	1,861,553	2,968,306	2,375,000
Madras	1,165,736	1,770,290	1,567,148
Native States in Bombay	1,001,753	2,163,538	2,475,000
Central Provinces	808,606	680,390	579,604
North-Western Provinces	718,484	1,635,497	1,573,695
Punjab	679,836	802,534	792,996

Oudh	17,151	74,947	94,115
Mysore and Coorg	14,413	31,228	21,324
Total	9,027,125	13,352,536	12,397,055

The area under cotton in Bengal is not known, agricultural statistics for that province being non-existent. But the cultivation there is unimportant. There are probably about 13 million acres altogether under cotton in India. It will be noticed that between the years 1877-78 and 1883-84 the cultivation largely increased in Bombay, both in British and non-British territory in that Presidency, as also in the North-Western Provinces, the Nizam's Territory, and, to a less marked extent, in Madras and Oudh.

The total increase of acreage, which amounted to 54 per cent. in the six years between 1877-78 and 1882-83, is only about 48 per cent. if we make the comparison between 1877-78 and 1883-84, as nearly 500,000 acres were thrown out of cotton cultivation in the latter year, owing to low prices and a bad season.

The year 1884-85 was even worse. A more or less marked diminution of cotton cultivation took place everywhere, except in the Bombay Native States, Oudh and Assam, resulting in a further total decrease of 955,481 acres.

The figures in the tables which state the yield as well as the export trade of each province are so untrustworthy that it is not considered necessary to comment upon them.

Part IX.

COTTON MILLS.

There were 89 cotton mills at work in India in 1885-86, containing 16,748 looms and 2,213,345 spindles. They consumed about 233 million pounds of cotton in the year, and employed an average daily number of 71,577 persons, of whom, as far as details have been obtained, there were 42,083 men, 13,691 women, 12,055 young persons, and 2,848 children. The nominal capital of the mills worked by joint stock proprietary is returned at 848 lakhs; but there is no return of the capital of nine mills worked by private proprietary, and probably the whole capital invested in this industry is not short of one thousand lakhs, or (in conventional exchange of 10 rupees to the pound) ten millions sterling.

Of the 89 mills, there were 67 in the Bombay Presidency, of which 49 are in the town and island of Bombay itself. There were six in Bengal, all in the vicinity of Calcutta; six in Madras, of which four are in the town of Madras; three in the North-Western Provinces, all at Cawnpore; one at Indore; three in the Central Provinces; two in Hyderabad (Nizam's Territory); and one in Mysore.

The oldest of the Bombay mills was established in 1851, and between that date and 1870 there were but seven mills established. By 1875 there were 22 mills at work, and 18 more were added between that year and 1880. Nine more were started in 1881, five in 1882, six in 1883, three in 1884, and four more were added in 1885. The last twelve years have seen the creation of 52 out of the 67 mills now working in Bombay.

In Calcutta the oldest mill dates from 1866, the others being the creation of 1872, 1875, 1877, and 1878. Since that year the only addition has been an extension of the Shamnagar mills in 1883. At Cawnpore, one of the mills was established in 1871; the Indore mill was started in 1872; the first two mills in Madras date from 1874 and 1875 respectively. It may be said in fact that the mill industry of India was only passing out of its infancy twelve years ago.

Part X.

JUTE MILLS.

There were 24 jute mills at work at the end of the official year 1885-86, employing a daily average number of 47,640 persons, namely, 29,336 men, 10,387 women, 4,417 young persons, and 3,500 children. The mills contained 6,936 looms, 126,964 spindles, and worked up about 152,000 tons of jute. The nominal capital of the mills worked by joint stock companies is stated in the returns at 270 lakhs (two millions seven hundred thousand sterling at the conventional exchange of 10 rupees to the pound); but the figures are incomplete, as are those of the looms and spindles and the quantity of jute manufactured. For five out of the 24 mills no returns of capital have been furnished. Probably about 35 or 40 lakhs may be added to the 270 lakhs indicated above as representing the capital invested in this industry.

All but one of the mills are in Bengal, most of them in the vicinity of Calcutta. The remaining mill (a small one) is at Vizagapatam.

The two oldest mills date from 1857. From that time to 1872 three more were started. The three years 1873 to 1875 saw the establishment of seven more mills. Five were established in the five years 1876-80, and since 1880 six more have been started, besides a large extension in 1884-85 of working power in the mills by the addition of looms and spindles. Before 1872 there were but six jute mills in existence, so that the industry has, like the cotton-spinning industry, practically grown up during the last fourteen years.

WOOLLEN MILLS.

There are four woollen mills—two at Cawnpore, one in the Punjab at Dhariwal in the Gurdaspur district, and one at Bangalore. One mill at Cawnpore is a private concern; the other three are Joint Stock Companies, and have an aggregate nominal capital of 17 lakhs. The mill in Gurdaspur has not furnished any figure of its outturn; the other three are reported to have had an outturn of the aggregate value of 7¼ lakhs in 1885, against 3⅓ lakhs in the preceding year.

Part XII.

PAPER MILLS.

There are nine paper mills, namely, five in the Bombay Presidency, two in Bengal (both near Calcutta), one at Lucknow, and one at Gwalior. Of the nine, three are reported to be private concerns, and the rest are shown to have an aggregate nominal Capital of ₹38,68,000. Three of the mills in the Bombay Presidency are either under construction or not in full work; the rest are reported to have produced papers of an aggregate value of ₹17,79,954 in the year 1885.

Part XIII.

BREWERIES.

3,150,342 gallons of beer were brewed during 1885, of which 1,982,777 gallons were bought by the Commissariat. The purchases of this Department and the outturn of the breweries have increased to these figures from 349,095 gallons in 1875, and 1,522,769 gallons in 1878 respectively. The average purchases of the Commissariat for the last four years (1881-84) have amounted to 1,809,205 gallons yearly. The imports of English beer for Government in 1885-86 only amounted to 375,396 gallons, against 1,505,062 gallons in 1884-85, and of that quantity the bulk was for Burma, Sindh, and Bombay, to which the operations of the brewers had not yet extended. Nearly all the beer now consumed by the troops in Northern India is Indian beer, and its displacement of imported beer elsewhere is only a question of time.

COLLIERIES.

There were 90 collieries in Bengal in 1885, 2 in the Central Provinces, 2 in Assam, and 1 at Umeria in Rewa (Central India), making 95 in all. The output of coal from the Bengal mines was reported as 1,123,700 tons; 119,116 tons were raised from the Central Provinces collieries (Mohpani and Warora); 43,707 tons from the Assam collieries, and 7,698 tons from Umeria, which had hardly begun work in 1884. The total annual output from all the mines was as follows:—

1882	1,130,242 Tons.
1883	1,315,976 „
1884	1,397,818 „
1885	1,294,221 „

The total number of persons employed at the mines is given as 22,745, but the return is obviously defective.

OTHER LARGE INDUSTRIES.

The next table (Part XV) gives such particulars as are obtainable of most of the other industries of India which are carried on upon an extensive scale. It still lacks completeness even as regards large industries which ought to find a place in the list, and it does not and cannot include the thousand industries which, though in the aggregate extensive enough, are practised on a small scale by men in their own houses or in small workshops.

The table includes:—

(1) A silk mill at Bombay, and another in Calcutta (at Ultadanga in the suburbs), and various silk weaving factories in Bengal. These latter to a large extent weave tasar silk. They are owned and managed by natives, and do not employ European machinery and apparatus. A silk weaving factory also exists at Delhi.

(2) Filatures for the reeling of silk. With the exception of one in the Dehra Doon (which is understood to have ceased work) these are all established in Bengal.

(3) Rice mills. Of these there are 40 in British Burma and four in Bengal.

(4) Timber mills. Of these there are 41 altogether, one in Bombay, two in Madras, one in the Punjab, two in Assam, one in Coorg, and 34 in British Burma.

(5) Indigo factories. There are a great number of these in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, all owned by individuals singly or in partnership with others, but none managed on the joint stock principle with limited liability.

Great numbers are now owned and worked by natives, but these are still singly small factories. In the Madras Presidency also there are a great number of Indigo factories mostly small concerns. In the Punjab there are said to be 39 factories, and in Rajputana one.

The information connected with Indigo factories is most defective, as it is indeed for most of the industries recorded in this return, and the table must be taken more as an indication and suggestion of the extent of the business than as a complete record.

(6) Coffee works. These are reported to be 21 in number, all in Madras.

(7) Cotton presses. There are great numbers of these in Madras, Bombay, Sind, Berar, the Nizam's Territory, the Central Provinces, Central India, and Rajputana, the North-Western Provinces, Punjab, and Burma.

(8) Jute presses. All these are in Bengal.

(9) Lac factories. There are 13 of these at Mirzapore in the North-Western Provinces. The number in Bengal is not stated; they are numerous, and, excepting the factory at Cossipore near Calcutta which is an important one, they are in many cases on a small scale.

(10) Ice factories. These are numerous, but the return is defective.

(11) Cutch factories. Two in Burma.

(12) Oil mills and wells. Incomplete. The expression of oil is largely carried on in various places, though the mills in most cases are small. Prominent in this return are the two petroleum concerns at Akyab. The yield of oil from these wells has been large, but the fall in the price of American petroleum has interfered with the development of local operations.

(13) Soap factories. Two, one at Meerut and the other in Bombay. There is also one at Calcutta which has not been entered.

(14) Sugar works—four in Madras, a number (not stated) in Bengal, one—the extensive Rosa factory at Shahjehanpur—in the North-Western Provinces, with a capital of 16 lakhs, and one in the Punjab, also a joint stock company, with a capital of 2½ lakhs.

(15) Tobacco farms. The only entries under this head are the plantations belonging to Messrs. Begg, Dunlop & Co. at Poosa and Ghazipur, where tobacco is grown, cured, and manufactured after the American methods.

(16) Flour mills. There are 40 of these, but the return is defective.

(17) Pottery. This head includes only the Raniganj Pottery Works belonging to Messrs. Burn & Co. of Calcutta. The industry is very widespread, however, and is increasing. Art pottery is being produced in Bombay and other places, and native works turn out characteristic ware at Delhi, Multan, Aligarh, and elsewhere, though it cannot be said as yet that the work is done on a large scale.

(18) One quarry is entered, that of the Rajmehal Stone Company, with a capital of 2½ lakhs, and 20 lime quarries in Assam. There is a slate quarry at work in Kangra, which has not been entered.

(19) Ten tile manufactories, of which eight in the Madras Presidency, one in Coorg, and one in the Hyderabad Territory.

(20) Iron and brass foundries. These are very numerous and scattered over Bombay, Sindh, Madras, Bengal, the N.-W. Provinces, the Punjab and Burma.

(21) Rope works. Five are entered, of which three in the Madras Presidency and two at Howrah near Calcutta. The latter are owned and managed by Europeans, and produce rope and cordage fit for all marine and other uses. Native rope works, it need hardly be said, are very common, but they are small and their rope is poor.

Part XV—concluded.

OTHER LARGE INDUSTRIES—concluded.

(22) Tanneries. Forty of these are returned, of which 20 are in Madras and 15 in Sindh. The leather works at Calcutta and Cawnpore are important and attaining increased dimensions.

(23) Only one cement work is reported, which is in Madras.

(24) There is one saltpetre factory entered, in the Punjab. But there are really hundreds of these, worked by natives on a small scale, in Behar and the North-Western Provinces.

(25) Lastly, there is a bone-crushing factory at Bombay.

Part XVI.

JOINT STOCK COMPANIES.

The total number of companies registered in India under the Companies Acts amounts to 1,604. Of these, 805 were working at the end of 1885-86, the others having either wound up or otherwise discontinued business, or never commenced it. So far, it would seem that every second joint stock company started was a failure. The nominal capital of the companies at work is stated at ₹28,51,84,367, the paid-up capital being ₹20,97,75,677 or, say, 21 crores, allowing for defective returns. This is an increase in paid-up capital of 34 lakhs in the year. Of these companies as many as 287 call themselves banking companies, but a very large number of these so-called banks are small native money-lending concerns in Madras and Mysore, the shareholders ordinarily not exceeding a score in number, and the capital varying from 10,000 to 30,000 rupees. The banks and loan associations in Madras number 201, and in Mysore 50, leaving only 36 for all the rest of India. There are 180 mills and presses, and 121 trading companies; 142 planting companies (tea and coffee mainly, 126 being tea companies in Bengal); 26 mining and quarrying companies; and 14 insurance companies, 5 of these 14 being small native concerns, really loan offices, in Mysore, of the same character as the "banks" in the same State. Of the whole number of companies at work there are 231 in Bengal, 188 in Bombay (103 of these being cotton mills and presses), 249 in Madras, of which 201 are "banks," 61 in Mysore, 55 being "banks" and "insurance" companies, 45 in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, 17 in the Punjab, of which 5 are trading companies, 12 in British Burma and 2 in the Central Provinces.

A comparison of the figures of 1885-86 with those of the two preceding years will be interesting:—

Part XVII.

SALT REVENUE.

In 1885-86, 31,205,026 maunds of salt paid duty, the duty realised amounting (exclusive of miscellaneous receipts) to ₹6,01,22,664 being 3·78 per cent. in quantity less than in the previous year, and the duty being 2·32 per cent. less. Eighteen years previously, in 1868-69, the first year for which the returns are given in their present form, the quantity of salt excised amounted to 22,733,359 maunds, and the revenue to ₹5,46,40,640. The quantity which entered into consumption therefore increased in this period by 37·3 per cent., being at an average rate of a little over 2 per cent. yearly. The population may be taken as increasing at the rate of about 1 per cent. yearly, so that the consumption of salt increases but slowly at the rate of about 1 per cent. a year. The revenue meanwhile has risen during the same period by 10 per cent., the increase being only a third of the increase in quantity which paid duty. During this period the duty was gradually reduced in Bengal and Northern India from ₹3-4 and ₹3 a maund respectively to ₹2, at which rate it has stood since March 1882. The duty in Madras and Bombay was raised from ₹1-13 to ₹2-8 in 1877, and then reduced to ₹2 in March 1882.

The duty realised in 1883-84, 1884-85, and 1885-86 was thus apportioned between the different provinces:—

	1883-84. ₹	1884-85. ₹	1885-86. ₹
In Bengal	1,90,54,686	2,08,55,078	1,98,80,602
In Northern India	1,33,16,529	1,42,24,580	97,44,473
In Madras	1,49,15,908	1,48,31,255	1,53,69,369
In Bombay	1,04,84,382	1,09,57,566	1,44,80,860
In Sindh	3,78,812	4,20,132	4,53,504
In British Burma	2,07,089	2,64,415	1,93,856

The falling off in 1885-86 in Northern India was owing to unfavourable weather at the Sambhar Lake during the manufacturing season.

CUSTOMS REVENUE.

These tables shew the amount of customs duty realised on each article imported and exported since 1871-72. In 1869-70*, the revenue on imports was £1,749,903, with a general rate of duty of 7½ per cent. ad valorem. In 1885-86, the revenue was £435,450, the only duties remaining on the tariff schedule being those on liquors, arms, and opium (the latter giving a nominal revenue as the duty is meant to be prohibitory). Salt has been separately treated and is excluded from these figures.

The revenue from exports in 1869-70 was £480,191, a great many articles being then subject to taxation: cotton manufactures, indigo, rice, wheat and other grains, tanned and dressed hides and skins, lac, oils, seeds, spices, and shawls. In 1885-86 the revenue was £743,849 derived from rice alone, all other articles being free.

FOREIGN TRADE AND SHIPPING.

The volume concludes with a series of tables shewing the progress of the foreign seaborne trade of India, for the whole country, for each Province separately, and for the principal articles of trade and principal foreign countries, as well as the progress of shipping, for various periods extending in many cases back to 1834-35. These supplement the annual accounts of the foreign trade which exhibit the progress of the trade for only five years. As the trade of India is fully reviewed separately every year, it is not necessary to offer a summary of these tables here. It is sufficient perhaps merely to state the fact that the value of the trade has risen in the 52 years from 1834-35 to 1885-86, from £14,342,290 to £156,123,211, the increase being nearly eleven fold, making on the average a rate of 19 per cent. annually.

(c) In the local report the area is given in bighas, which have been converted into acres at the rate of 3,600 square yards to the bigha.
(d) Estimated by dividing the total outturn by the number of acres under cultivation.
(f) The cultivation of cotton in Coorg is confined to a few small plots of land in the corners of fields in the Nanjarajapatna taluq, and is grown solely for private use.

(d) Estimated outturn.
(e) These are only the estimated quantities of cotton consumed by the mills.
(f) The total outturn of the Province is insufficient for local consumption, and cotton is imported to meet local demands.
(g) Nearly all the cotton grown in the Province is consumed locally.
(h) The local consumption has been estimated by adding to the outturn the amount of cotton imported (30,563 cwts.) and deducting the amount exported.
(i) The estimated local consumption has been obtained by deducting the amount exported from the total outturn.
(j) "Estimated by multiplying the number of acres under cultivation by the number of lbs. yielded by an acre."
(k) Calculated with the help of formulæ from anna valuations for districts of the Bombay Presidency proper. For Sind and Native States calculation made on the basis of the acre yield of the British districts.

(d) These figures represent exports, both internal and external, of cleaned cotton.
(e) These figures include in some cases exports from one district to another within Mysore, which are not separately distinguished in the local statements.
(f) These figures represent imported cotton exported by sea only.
(g) These figures represent only part of the exports from the Province: no information is available in regard to exports from the Gáro Hills.
(h) Estimated by dividing the total value by the total quantity exported.
(i) Average of prices current in all districts.
(j) These are the prices of uncleaned cotton.
(k) This is the average of the rates obtaining in the Amráoti market.
(l) This is the average of the rates obtaining in the two principal marts of Agra and Cawnpore.

* No information available. † Included with All Other Articles. ‡ See head "Naval Stores."

(a) Duty included under "Stationery" for the years previous to 1875-76.
(b) Fruits and Vegetables, dried, salted, or preserved, are classed under the head "Fruits and Vegetables" up to 1874-75, and under "Provisions" from 1875-76.
(c) In the Financial Accounts the duty collected on Salt is entered under "Salt," not under Customs. This duty is included in the General Table of the Indian Salt Revenue, Part XV of this Volume.
(d) The figures for the years previous to 1875-76 include articles used in the consumption of Tobacco, which cannot be separately distinguished.
(e) Duty levied on passengers' baggage, and the realisations at Cambay, are included from the year 1871-72 only.
(f) In these cases of duty realised on articles which were removed from the Tariff from the 20th March 1878, the sums noted were either charged on importations prior to that date, or charged under other heads still retained on the Tariff, or levied erroneously.
(g) Includes Customs realisations, £20, in 1880-81 and £30 in 1881-82, at Bilimora and Nausári, ports in the Gáekwár's Territory.
(h) Includes Customs realisations on articles imported prior to the 10th March 1882.
(i) Articles comprised under "Passengers' Baggage" have been distributed against the respective articles.

NOTE 1.—ALL IMPORTS INTO BRITISH INDIA WERE FREED FROM THE 10TH MARCH 1882, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF ARMS AND AMMUNITION, LIQUORS, OPIUM, AND SALT.
„ 2.—FOR INFORMATION REGARDING THE RATES OF DUTY LEVIED ON EACH ARTICLE, AND THE ARTICLES COMING UNDER CERTAIN HEADS WHICH HAVE AT DIFFERENT PERIODS BEEN FREE OF DUTY, AND FOR OTHER INFORMATION REGARDING THE TARIFFS, SEE TABLES 3 AND 5 IN THIS PART.

(g) Under the Act duty was leviable only on imports into the Bombay Presidency, excluding Sindh. The duty was extended to imports into Sindh, by Notification No. 174, dated 28th December 1877 (Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce). Under Notification No. 2346, dated 5th August 1875, as amended by Notification No. 15, dated 25th January 1878, duty was levied on imports from British Indian ports in the following cases only:—

1. When the import was unprotected by a certificate to the effect that duty has been paid on the salt used in curing the fish.
2. When the import was from Burma.

By Notification No. 3659, dated 13th November 1880, salted fish imported into any port in the Bombay Presidency or Sindh was exempted from duty.

(h) By Order No. 1093, dated 25th July 1868 (Financial Department).

NOTE (1).—Throughout this series, with the exception of table 22, the figures for Merchandise and Treasure include the Imports and Exports on account of Government.

(2).—For the years 1870-71 to 1873-74, revised figures have been included in all the tables in this series for Government treasure, and in tables Nos. 1 and 2 for Government stores only. As corrected details in regard to articles and countries for Government stores are not available, the revisions could not be carried out in the remaining tables, in which the totals of Merchandise for these years will consequently not be found to agree with those in tables Nos. 1 and 2.

(3).—The amounts for Bengal and Bombay up to 1852-53 are those for Calcutta and Bombay only, the subordinate Bengal and Bombay ports not being included.

(4).—Up to 1865-66, the figures in this series were taken from the returns presented to Parliament. But from 1866-67 a consolidated Volume of Trade Statistics for the whole of British India has been compiled from returns furnished monthly by Local Governments; and from this year the figures in tables 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, 10, and 12 have been taken from this consolidated account; while those for Merchandise in tables 5, 9, 11, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20, showing the trade of each province with certain foreign countries named, have been taken from the volumes published by Local Governments.

SUMMARY OF CONTENTS.

Part I.

CENSUS STATISTICS.

As these statistics have been specially treated in separate reports, it is unnecessary to summarise them here, and only a few remarks on the figures which give some indication of the material condition of the country are required.

There were 714,707 villages, townships, and cities in India in 1881, and 43,532,035 inhabited houses. The villages, townships, and cities were in the proportion of 0·52 to each square mile of territory, and the houses in the proportion of 32 to each square mile. Bengal had much the largest number of villages, &c., these amounting to 248,706 and being at the rate of 1·59 to the square mile. The North-Western Provinces came next, with 81,084 villages, &c., or 0·99 to the square mile. In Oudh there was one village, &c., to the square mile of area in the province. These are the three most densely populated provinces in the empire, the number of persons to the square mile being 470 in Oudh, 426 in Bengal, and 400 in the North-Western Provinces. Cochin, indeed, shews a population of 441 to the square mile in an area of 1,361 square miles, but in this small parcel of native territory it is only the port which belongs to the British Government.

In Bengal the number of houses to the square mile was 67, the houses containing an average of 6·32 persons. The North-Western Provinces had 59 houses to the square mile, with an average of 6·82 persons to the house, and Oudh 85 houses, with an average of 5·51 persons. The average number of persons to each house for all India was 5·83.

Out of the male population of 129,941,851 contained in India, 52,029,098, or 40 per cent., are returned as engaged in agriculture; 7,248,475, or 5·6 per cent., were labourers; 3,027,958, or 2·33 per cent., were in the service of Government or members of professions; 2,489,516, or 1·9 per cent., were engaged in domestic service and occupations; 49,248,645, or 38 per cent., were returned as "independent and non-productive, and unspecified;" 3,238,734, or 2·5 per cent., were in commerce; and 12,659,425, or 9·7 per cent., were in industrial occupations.

Thus, we find less than 12½ per cent. of the male population engaged in commercial and industrial pursuits, while 40 per cent. were directly engaged in agriculture, to which should be added probably the bulk of the labourers; and doubtless a large proportion of those returned in the "independent and non-productive" class were directly dependent on the land, though not actually employed in its cultivation.

The total area of the country in 1881 was 1,372,588 square miles; but the division into cultivable, cultivated and uncultivable land is so lacking in completeness, that it is not possible to say what relation these divisions bear to each other, except for some provinces.

Although there were altogether, in 1881, 714,707 towns and villages in India, in great part these are small collections of huts, hardly worthy of being even called villages. As many as 348,466 contained less than 200 inhabitants each, and 184,486 contained each a population varying between 200 and 500. Of towns, properly so called, the number is relatively very small for such a vast area. There were only 63 with a population exceeding 50,000, 123 with a population of from 20,000 to 50,000, and 388 with a population ranging between 10,000 and 20,000. In the first class of the 63, containing a population of upwards of 50,000 each, there were only 23 with a population exceeding 100,000, and of these 23 only 5 had a population each of more than 200,000, namely, Bombay, Calcutta with its suburbs, Madras, Hyderabad in the Deccan with its suburbs including Secunderabad, and Lucknow. It is probable that Benares may have to be added to the list of towns containing over 200,000 inhabitants, for at the last census it was only 300 short of that number, and the city has increased largely in numbers of late years. In general the increase of the population of these large towns is noticeable, and in a few cases, such as Rangoon, quite remarkable. Some few towns fell off in population during the decade (Lucknow, Bhágalpur, Farukhabad, Mirzapur, and Monghyr); but whereas in 1871 there were only 45 towns in India with a population exceeding 50,000, the number had increased to 63 in 1881.

EMIGRATION.

The figures in these tables relate solely to emigration as carried on under the Emigration Laws, and take no account of the numbers who leave India as passengers in vessels, not having been recruited by Emigration Agencies for service in the Colonies; nor do they take account of the traffic in pilgrims, of whom small, but uncertain, numbers settle out of India. But both classes, pilgrims as well as native passengers who do not leave India as emigrants engaged for service, are comparatively trifling in number, and the recorded figures of emigration give practically the whole number of emigrants.

The total number of emigrants from India during the six years 1881-82 to 1886-87 amounted to not more than 81,290, making on an average an annual exodus of 13,548 persons. The proportion to the population is inappreciable, amounting to only about ·05 per mille. And it cannot be said that any, even of this very small number, quit the country with the intention of permanently establishing their domicile elsewhere. On the contrary, every one of them hopes to return with his savings to his native place in a few years. The hope is not often realised, for the total number of persons who returned during the last six years amounted to only 41,365—an average of 6,894 yearly, or about one-half of the number who left India. The mortality amongst these people is high in some of the Colonies to which they go, and of those who survive a substantial proportion elect to continue to work as free labourers in the colony after their term of indenture expires, and many of these never return to India. In Mauritius, for instance, there is now a considerable population of Indian settlers, and in Trinidad too the settled Indians are increasing in numbers.

Out of the whole number who emigrated in the six years there were 50,646 men, 20,739 women, and 9,905 children, the proportion being: men 62·3 per cent., women 25·5 per cent., children 12·18 per cent.

Of those who returned to India, 24,524 were men, 9,208 women, and 7,633 children, being in the proportion of 59·28 per cent. of men, 22·26 of women, and 18·45 of children.

There are five places in India from which emigration may legally be carried on—Calcutta, Bombay, Madras, and the two French settlements of Pondicherry and Karikal. From Bombay emigration was stopped many years ago, and, though the legal restriction has been removed, recruiting has never been resumed. The port of Calcutta is the most convenient for the shipment of emigrants drawn from the impoverished masses of the thickly populated provinces of Oudh and Behar, and the great bulk of emigration work is done at this port. Of the 7,978 persons who emigrated from India last year, 1886-87, no less than 6,470 were shipped from Calcutta, of whom almost the whole number was from the North-Western Provinces, Oudh and Behar. From Madras only 1,508 were shipped. There was no emigration from Karikal and Pondicherry, during the last three years.

The destinations of last year's emigrants were as follows :—

To Demerara	3,916 persons.	7,978
To Trinidad	2,201 „
To Mauritius	1,012 „
To Natal	496 „
To Surinam	353 „

Emigration to Réunion and Cayenne has ceased under the orders of Government.

RAILWAYS.

At the end of 1886-87 there were 8,091½ miles of State railways open for public traffic and 2,607½ miles in progress. Of Guaranteed and Assisted lines, there were 4,539 miles open for traffic and 245¼ miles in progress. In Native States there were 755¼ miles open for traffic and 371½ miles in progress. The total mileage of all railways was—

13,385¾ miles open.
3,224¼ miles in progress.

The rate of progress in each of the last ten years in opening out railway communications has been as follows :—

1877-78 . .	7,322½ miles opened.	1882-83 . .	10,145½ miles opened.
1878-79 . .	8,212 „	1883-84 . .	10,828¼ „
1879-80 . .	8,492¾ „	1884-85 . .	12,000¼ „
1880-81 . .	9,308 „	1885-86 . .	12,375½ „
1881-82 . .	9,892½ „	1886-87 . .	13,385¾ „

The total earnings of the railways were ₹18,70,64,687, and their total expenses ₹8,97,15,163, which made 47·9 per cent. of the earnings, leaving a net profit of ₹9,73,49,524, of which ₹3,05,26,224 were contributed by the East Indian Railway alone. The net profits of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway were ₹2,10,07,725, of the North-

Western Railway R1,19,65,607, of the Bombay-Baroda line R79,52,756, and the Rajputana-Malwa R86,81,119. These five lines with a total of 6,718 miles, about one-half of the whole open mileage, brought in 82 per cent. of the aggregate net profits.

The total number of passengers carried on the lines has increased from 22,251,496 in 1873 to 84,489,521 in 1886. (These figures do not include season-ticket-holders.)

The number of tons of goods and minerals conveyed has increased from 4,084,748 in 1873 to 19,583,204 in 1886, and of live-stock from 448,928 head to 811,918 head.

The gross receipts from the passenger traffic rose from R2,38,45,825 in 1873 to R5,80,96,626 in 1886; and from the goods traffic the gross receipts were R4,61,48,630 in 1873 and R12,39,16,555 in 1886.

The gross receipts per mile on each of the Indian lines in 1886 were as follows :—

FORESTS.

In 1886-87 there were 53,096 square miles of forest demarcated and reserved by the State as compared with 51,944 square miles in 1885-86. The work of demarcating and reserving forest tracts has been pushed on with great vigour during the last twelve years, and especially since 1877-78. In that year the demarcated area was only 18,120 square miles; in the following year (1878-79) it was raised by operations in the Central Provinces to 40,925 square miles. Those Provinces possess the largest area of reserved forest (19,955 square miles), and Bombay follows with 9,754 square miles. In Bengal there are 4,986, in Lower Burma 4,788, in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh 3,727, in Madras 2,919,* in Assam 2,707, in Berar 1,542, and in the Punjab 1,551 square miles.

CHINCHONA CULTIVATION.

In the Government plantation in Sikkim there was, on the 31st March 1887, an area of 2,205 acres under cultivation, containing nearly 5 millions of trees, and there was in addition a stock of 555,000 seedlings and rooted cuttings in the nurseries available to be planted out. The outturn of bark collected during the year amounted to 225,631 lb. With the stock in hand at the commencement of the year there were 481,024 lb of bark available for manufacture during the year, of which 230,820 lb were issued to the Quinologist for manufacture and 900 lb sold to the Medical Department, the rest being stored. Of the febrifuge, 6,441 lb were produced at a cost of R13-11-2 per lb, and 149 lb of the superior crystalline febrifuge at a cost of R20-8-9 per lb. The cost was again much in excess of the cost of previous years.

* This figure seems open to correction.

Part V—concluded.

CHINCHONA CULTIVATION—concluded.

The quantity of febrifuge (ordinary and superior) disposed of by sale to the public and, by issue to the Medical Department, has been as follows each year—

1882-83	8,901
1883-84	9,145
1884-85	7,152
1885-86	5,499

Of the trees in the plantation, the largest proportion (2,502,000) still consists of Chinchona succirubra; but these are giving place to the more valuable C. calisaya ledgeriana, of which there are now 1,416,900 trees permanently planted out. The hybrid chinchona numbers 675,100 trees. The other descriptions exist in small numbers only.

The Nilgiri Government plantations contained an area of 847 acres planted out, the number of trees at the end of 1886-87 amounting to 1,938,268, of which 1,151,920 were C. officinalis. The bark collected during the year amounted to 124,333 lb; 85,000 lb were sold at auction in Madras, while 1,200 lb were issued to the Madras Medical Department, a stock of 158,222 lb being left at the end of the year.

There is one other Government plantation at Thandoungyee in British Burma—a small one, containing only 60,500 trees, seedlings, and cuttings.

In regard to private chinchona plantations the information accessible is defective. What is known of them is that at the end of 1886-87 there were in—

TEA CULTIVATION.

The following table compares the acreage and yield in 1886 with those for 1875-76 the first year of the series entered in this volume:—

	1875-76.		1886.
	Acres.	Yield in lb.	Acres.	Yield in lb.
Assam and Cachar	87,307	20,028,890	203,998	61,719,678

Total	124,836	26,526,317	298,219	82,425,812

Part VI—concluded.

TEA CULTIVATION—concluded.

Thus, within these twelve years the acreage increased by 139 per cent., and the whole outturn by 211 per cent. nearly. Comparing 1886 with 1885 the area increased by 5 per cent. and the yield by 15·2 per cent.

In Assam the principal planting districts are—

	Acres.
Cachar	55,835
Sibságar	46,896
Sylhet	34,718
Lakhimpur	30,343
Darrang	18,495
Kamrup	6,412

In Bengal about three-fifths of the cultivation are found in the Darjeeling district, which had 37,682 acres under tea in 1886; Jalpaiguri had 23,947 acres; Chittagong 3,965; Lohardugga 3,031; and Hazaribagh 983 acres.

In the North-Western Provinces there were 4,952 acres in the Dún, the rest being in Kumaun and Garhwál (3,421 acres).

In the Punjab tea to a small extent is grown only in Kangra (8,950 acres) and in the Simla district (120 acres).

In Madras there were 5,478 acres on the Nilgiris and 1,004 acres in Travancore. Elsewhere in that Presidency the industry is unimportant.

In Burma there is only one plantation of 15 acres in Tounghoo.

COFFEE CULTIVATION.

The figures are so defective that it is not possible to make any useful comparison with former years. In 1880 the whole area under mature plants was about 163,000 acres and the entire yield was about 33 million pounds. The industry has made no progress for some time past, and has in fact rather fallen away. The acreage under mature coffee plant was thus distributed in 1884, 1885, and 1886:—

	1884. Acres.	1885. Acres.	1886. Acres.
Mysore	82,462	81,754	75,119
Madras	56,247	55,143	53,094

Travancore	4,305	4,013	1,854
Cochin	2,218	2,407	2,641
Bengal	9	9	10
	187,541	186,326	176,518

The total yield is reported to have been in these years 28, 35 and 31½ million pounds respectively:—

COTTON CULTIVATION.

The acreage under cotton is thus represented—

	1883-84. Acres.	1884-85. Acres.	1885-86. Acres.

The area under cotton in Bengal is not known, agricultural statistics for that province being non-existent. But the cultivation there is unimportant. There are altogether between 13½ and 14 million acres under cotton in India. It will be noticed that during the last three years there has been a general decrease in the cultivation except in the Punjab and the native states in the Bombay Presidency.

In the six years between 1877-78 and 1882-83, the increase in acreage amounted to 54 per cent. But in 1883-84, nearly 500,000 acres were thrown out of cotton cultivation owing to low prices and a bad season. The following year was worse, being more or less marked by a diminution of cotton cultivation everywhere, except in the Bombay native states, Oudh and Assam, resulting in a further total decrease of 955,481 acres. The year 1885-86 hardly proved better, except in the Punjab, the native states of western India, and in the Madras Presidency, the net result being a recovery of only 304,144 acres on the figures of 1884-85.

The recovery has been more pronounced on the whole in 1886-87, the season having been more favourable, but detailed figures have not yet been received, and a fuller summary of this year must be reserved for the next issue of this volume.

The figures in the tables which state the yield, as well as the local consumption of each province, are manifestly untrustworthy, and comments upon them seem unnecessary.

Part IX.

COTTON MILLS.

There were 89 cotton mills at work in India in 1886-87, containing 16,736 looms and 2,190,376 spindles. They consumed about 264 million pounds of cotton in the year, and employed an average daily number of 72,169 persons, of whom, as far as details have been obtained, there were 42,742 men, 14,255 women, 11,191 young persons, and 2,406 children. The nominal capital of the mills worked by joint stock proprietary is returned at 814 lakhs; but there is no return of the capital of five mills worked by private proprietary, and probably the whole capital invested in this industry is not short of one thousand lakhs, or (in conventional exchange of 10 rupees to the pound) ten millions sterling.

Of the 89 mills, there were 67 in the Bombay Presidency, of which 49 are in the town and island of Bombay itself. One of the largest mills in the Island of Bombay, with a capital of 60 lakhs, ceased work in March 1886, the Company owning the mill having gone into liquidation; and the oldest mill, dating from the year 1851, was destroyed by fire during the year. There were six mills in Bengal, all in the vicinity of Calcutta; six in Madras, of which four are in the town of Madras; three in the North-Western Provinces, all at Cawnpore; one at Indore; three in the Central Provinces; two in Hyderabad (Nizam's Territory); and one in Mysore.

The oldest of the Bombay mills was established in 1851, and between that date and 1870 there were but seven mills established. By 1875 there were 22 mills at work, and 18 more were added between that year and 1880. Ten more were started in 1881, three in 1882, six in 1883, three in 1884, four in 1885, and one more was added in 1887. The last thirteen years have seen the creation of 52 out of the 67 mills now working in Bombay.

In Calcutta the oldest mill dates from 1866, the others being the creation of 1872, 1875, 1877, and 1878. Since that year the only addition has been an extension of the Shamnagar mills in 1883. At Cawnpore, one of the mills was established in 1871; the Indore mill was started in 1872; the first two mills in Madras date from 1874 and 1875 respectively. It may be said in fact that the mill industry of India was only passing out of its infancy thirteen years ago.

[N.B.—The figures are not quite correct for 1886-87. Some of the Bombay mills sent in no returns and for these the figures of 1885-86 have been retained.]

Part X.

JUTE MILLS.

There were 24 jute mills at work at the end of the official year 1886-87, employing a daily average number of 49,015 persons, namely, 29,660 men, 11,198 women, 5,113 young persons, and 3,044 children. The mills contained 7,164 looms, 135,593 spindles, and worked up about 143,500 tons of jute. The nominal capital of the mills worked by joint stock companies is stated in the returns at 285 lakhs (£2,850,000 at the conventional exchange of 10 rupees to the pound); but the figures are not quite complete, as for four out of the 24 mills no returns of capital have been furnished. Probably about 35 or 40 lakhs may be added to the total on account of these.

All but two of the mills are in Bengal, most of them in the vicinity of Calcutta. Of the two not in Bengal, one (a small one) is at Vizagapatam, and the other at Cawnpore where it commenced work during the year 1887.

The two oldest mills date from 1857. From that time to 1872 four more were started. The three years 1873 to 1875 saw the establishment of six more mills. Five were established in the five years 1876-80, and since 1880 eight more have been started, besides a large extension since 1884-85 of working power in the mills by the addition of looms and spindles. Before 1872 there were but six jute mills in existence, so that the industry has, like the cotton-spinning industry, practically grown up during the last fifteen years.

WOOLLEN MILLS.

There are four woollen mills—two at Cawnpore, one in the Punjab at Dháriwál in the Gurdaspur district, and one at Bangalore. One of the Cawnpore mills is a private concern; the other three are Joint Stock Companies, with an aggregate nominal capital of 18 lakhs. The Dháriwál mill does not state its outturn; the other three report an outturn of the aggregate value of 5¼ lakhs in 1886, against 7¼ lakhs in the preceding year and 3⅓ lakhs in 1884. The number of looms and spindles employed in 1886 by the three mills was 242 and 5,420.

Part XII.

PAPER MILLS.

There are nine paper mills, five in the Bombay Presidency, two in Bengal (both near Calcutta), one at Lucknow, and one at Gwalior. Of the nine, three are reported to be private concerns; the others have an aggregate nominal capital of ₹38,68,000. Two of the mills in the Bombay Presidency have not worked during the year, one being under repair and the other under construction. The fibrous materials used for making paper are chiefly rags, babui and moonj grasses, rice straw, jute and hemp cuttings, and old jute bags and cloth. The quality of the papers made has improved in recent years, and they have a large and steady sale. The total value of the outturn, which was a little over 14 lakhs in 1884, and 17⅝ lakhs in 1885 increased to 23½ lakhs in 1886, making an increase of nearly 65 per cent. as compared with 1884.

Part XIII.

BREWERIES.

Four millions, three hundred and seventeen thousand, seven hundred and twenty-four gallons of beer were brewed during 1886, of which 2,218,969 gallons were bought by the Commissariat. The purchases of this Department and the outturn of the breweries have increased to these figures from 349,095 gallons in 1875, and 1,522,769 gallons in 1878, respectively. The average purchases of the Commissariat for the last five years (1881-85) have amounted to 1,843,919 gallons yearly. The imports of English beer for Government in 1886-87 only amounted to 152,064 gallons, against 1,505,062 gallons in 1884-85, and of that quantity the bulk was for Bombay, Bengal, and Sindh, to which the operations of the brewers had not yet extended. Nearly all the beer now consumed by the troops in Northern India is Indian beer and, now that the possibility of brewing in the plains has been established, its displacement of imported beer elsewhere is, so far at any rate as the troops are concerned, only a question of time. Within the last two years a brewery has been started at Poona and another at Darjeeling, and arrangements are in progress for brewing at Mandalay and at Quetta.

COLLIERIES.

There were 99 collieries in Bengal in 1886 (of which however 37 were closed), 2 in the Central Provinces, 3 in Assam, and 1 at Umeria in Rewa (Central India), making 105 in all, of which 68 were being worked. The output of coal from the Bengal mines was reported as 1,186,802 tons; 117,287 tons were raised from the Central Provinces collieries (Mohpani and Warora); 70,859 tons from the Assam collieries, and 13,539 tons from Umeria. No return has been received from the Damdot colliery recently opened in the Punjab. The total annual output from all the mines was as follows:—

1882	1,130,242 Tons.
1883	1,315,976 „
1884	1,397,818 „
1885	1,294,221 „
1886	1,388,487 „

The total number of persons employed at the mines is given as 24,794, but the return is obviously defective.

Part XV.

OTHER LARGE INDUSTRIES.

The table gives such particulars as are obtainable of most of the industries, other than those for which separate tables have been given, which are carried on upon an extensive scale. It still lacks completeness even as regards large industries which ought to find a place in the list, and it does not and cannot include the thousand industries which, though in the aggregate extensive enough, are practised on a small scale by men in their own houses or in small workshops.

The table includes:—

(1) Silk mills.—A silk mill at Bombay, and another in Calcutta (at Ultadanga in the suburbs), and various silk weaving factories in Bengal. These latter to a large extent weave tasar silk. They are owned and managed by natives, and do not employ European machinery and apparatus.

(2) Filatures for the reeling of silk.—With the exception of one in the Dehra Dún (which is understood to have ceased work) these are all established in Bengal.

(3) Rice mills.—Of these there are 40 in British Burma and three in Bengal.

(4) Timber mills.—Of these there are 41 altogether, one in Bombay, two in Madras, two in Assam, one in Coorg, and 35 in Lower Burma.

(5) Indigo factories.—There are a great number of these in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, all owned by individuals singly or in partnership with others, but one only, in Bengal, managed on the joint stock principle with limited liability. Great numbers are now owned and worked by natives, but these are still singly small factories. In the Madras Presidency also there are a great number of indigo factories, mostly small concerns. In the Punjab there are said to be 21 factories, and in Rajputana one.

The information connected with indigo factories is most defective, as it is indeed for most of the industries recorded in this return, and the table must be taken more as an indication and suggestion of the extent of the business than as a complete record.

(6) Coffee works.—These are reported to be 23 in number, all in Madras.

(7) Cotton presses.—There are great numbers of these in Madras, Bombay, Sind, Berar, the Nizam's Territory, the Central Provinces, Central India, and Rajputana, the North-Western Provinces, Punjab, and Burma.

(8) Jute presses.—All these are in Bengal.

(9) Lac factories.—There are 25 of these at Mirzapore in the North-Western Provinces. The number in Bengal is not stated; they are numerous, and, excepting the factory at Cossipore near Calcutta which is an important one, they are in most cases on a small scale.

(10) Ice factories.—These are numerous, but the return is defective.

(11) Cutch factories.—Two in Burma.

(12) Oil mills and wells.—Incomplete. The expression of oil is largely carried on in various places, though the mills in most cases are small. The list does not include the petroleum wells in Upper Burma, the only wells as yet worked on anything like a large scale. Nor does it contain the new petroleum workings just commenced in Biluchistan.

(13) Soap factories.—Two, one at Meerut and the other in Bombay.

(14) Sugar works.—Four in Madras, one in Bombay; in Bengal, the large Cossipore factory, with a capital of 10 lakhs, and a number of small factories not mentioned; one—the extensive Rosa factory at Shahjehanpur—in the North-Western Provinces, with a capital of 16 lakhs, and one in the Punjab. A factory has also been reported at Bangalore this year.

(15) Tobacco farms.—The only entries under this head are the plantations belonging to Messrs. Begg, Dunlop & Co. at Poosa and Ghazipur, where tobacco is grown, cured, and manufactured after the American methods.

(16) Flour mills.—There are 50 of these, but the return is defective.

(17) Pottery.—This head includes only the Raniganj Pottery Works belonging to Messrs. Burn & Co. of Calcutta. The industry is very widespread, however, and is increasing. Art pottery is being produced in Bombay and other places, and native works turn out characteristic ware at Delhi, Multan, Aligarh, and elsewhere, though it cannot be said as yet that the work is done on a large scale.

(18) Stone and lime.—One quarry is entered, that of the Rajmehal Stone Company, with a capital of 2½ lakhs, and 17 lime quarries in Assam. There is a slate quarry at work in Kangra, which has not been entered.

(19) Tile manufactories.—Ten tile manufactories, of which eight in the Madras Presidency, one in Coorg, and one in the Hyderabad Territory.

(20) Iron and brass foundries.—These are very numerous and scattered over Bombay, Sindh, Madras, Bengal, the N.-W. Provinces, the Punjab and Burma.

(21) Rope works.—Six are entered, of which three in the Madras Presidency and three in Bengal; two of these being at Howrah near Calcutta, and one at Hooghly. The works at Howrah are owned and managed by Europeans, and produce rope and cordage fit for all marine and other uses. Native rope works, it need hardly be said, are very common, but they are small and their rope is poor.

(22) Tanneries.—Thirty-seven of these are returned, of which 14 are in Madras and 15 in Sindh. The leather works at Calcutta and Cawnpore are important and attaining increased dimensions.

(23) Cement manufactories.—Only one cement work is reported, which is in Madras.

(24) Saltpetre manufactories.—There is one saltpetre factory entered, in the Punjab. But there are really hundreds of these, worked by natives on a small scale, in Behar and the North-Western Provinces.

(25) Bone-crushing factories.—One at Bombay, two in Bengal near Calcutta (not stated), and one (started during the year) at Malabar.

JOINT STOCK COMPANIES.

The total number of companies registered in India under the law amounts to 1,737. Of these, 886 were working at the end of 1886-87, the others having either wound up or otherwise discontinued business, or never commenced it. So far it would seem that about every second joint stock company started was a failure. The nominal capital of the companies at work is stated at ₹29,13,23,646, the paid-up capital being ₹21,38,04,422 or, say, 21½ crores, allowing for defective returns. This is an increase in paid-up capital of 40 lakhs in the year. Of these companies as many as 355 call themselves banking companies, but a very large number of these so-called banks are small native money-lending concerns in Madras and Mysore, the shareholders ordinarily not exceeding a score in number, and the capital varying from 10,000 to 30,000 rupees. The banks and loan associations in Madras number 269, and in Mysore 50, leaving only 36 for all the rest of India. There are 190 mills and presses, and 128 trading companies; 143 planting companies (tea and coffee mainly, 127 being tea companies in Bengal); 25 mining and quarrying companies; and 15 insurance companies, 5 of these 15 being small native concerns, really loan offices, in Mysore, of the same character as the "banks" in the same State. Of the whole number of companies at work there are 230 in Bengal, 204 in Bombay (111 of these being cotton mills and presses), 318 in Madras, of which 269 are "banks," 61 in Mysore, 55 being "banks" and "insurance" companies, 40 in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, 18 in the Punjab, of which 8 are trading companies, 12 in Lower Burma and 3 in the Central Provinces.

A comparison of the figures of 1886-87 with those of the three preceding years will be interesting:—

SALT REVENUE.

In 1886-87, 33,771,990 maunds of salt paid duty, the duty realised amounting (exclusive of miscellaneous receipts) to ₹6,35,84,542, the quantity being 6·44 per cent. and the duty 5·40 per cent. more than in the previous year. Nineteen years previously, in 1868-69, the first year for which the returns are given in their present form, the quantity of salt excised amounted to 22,733,359 maunds, and the revenue to ₹5,46,40,640. The quantity which entered into consumption therefore increased in this period by 48·56 per cent., being at an average rate of a little over 2½ per cent. yearly. The revenue meanwhile has risen during the same period by nearly 16½ per cent., the increase being a third of the increase in quantity which paid duty. During this period the duty was gradually reduced in Bengal and Northern India from R3-4 and R3 a maund respectively to R2, at which rate it has stood since March 1882. The duty in Madras and Bombay was raised from R1-13 to R2-8 in 1877, and then reduced to R2 in March 1882.

Part VII—concluded.

The subjoined table shows the progress in consumption in recent years. In the five years ending with 1876-77, the increase compared with the consumption in the preceding period was very small, hardly exceeding an annual average of one per cent. In the next five years (ending 1881-82), the rate of increase more than doubled. In the last five years (ending 1886-87), consumption again almost doubled, the average annual rate being nearly 4 per cent., a rate very much in excess of the rate of increase in the population. The great advance in consumption in this last period must be attributed mainly to (1) the reduction of duty in March 1882 to the moderate rate of R2; (2) the reduction in cost of transit effected by the substitution of railways for pack-bullocks and carts; (3) the energetic reforms in the last five years in the administration of the salt revenue in the Madras Presidency which practically stopped the illicit manufacture of salt there. It will be interesting to note whether the progress of consumption will be materially affected during the next five years by the recent increase of 25 per cent. in the rate of duty, or whether the reductions effected and still to be effected in cost of transit by the spread of railway communications will counterbalance the increase in the tax and prevent appreciable restriction of consumption. The price of salt in India consists mainly of the cost of conveyance plus the duty.

The falling off in 1885-86 in Northern India was due to exhaustion of stocks which it was impossible to replenish, manufacture having been rendered impossible by reason of rain at the Sambhar Lake during the manufacturing season.

CUSTOMS REVENUE.

These tables shew the amount of customs duty realised on each article imported and exported since 1872-73. In 1869-70*, the revenue on imports was £1,749,903, with a general rate of duty of 7½ per cent. ad valorem. In 1886-87, the revenue was £510,500, the only duties remaining on the tariff schedule being those on liquors, arms, and opium (the latter giving a nominal revenue as the duty is meant to be prohibitory). Salt has been separately treated and is excluded from these figures.

The revenue from exports in 1869-70 was £480,191, a great many articles being then subject to taxation: cotton manufactures, indigo, rice, wheat and other grains, tanned and dressed hides and skins, lac, oils, seeds, spices, and shawls. In 1886-87 the revenue was £708,412 derived from rice alone, all other articles being free.

The tables give a general view of the duties levied under various Tariff Acts since 1867, and contain classified lists of the articles which are now dutiable and not dutiable on import and export, shewing for each how it was treated under each tariff schedule framed since 1867.

Part XIX & Part XX.

FOREIGN TRADE AND SHIPPING.

The volume concludes with a series of tables shewing the progress of the foreign sea-borne trade of India, for the whole country, for each Province separately, and for the principal articles of trade and principal foreign countries, as well as the progress of shipping, for various periods extending in many cases back to 1834-35. These supplement the annual accounts of the foreign trade which exhibit the progress of the trade for only five years. As the trade of India is fully reviewed separately every year, it is not necessary to offer a summary of these tables here. It is sufficient perhaps merely to state the fact that the value of the trade has risen in the 53 years from 1834-35 to 1886-87, from £14,342,290 to £163,021,303, the increase being more than eleven fold, making on the average a rate of 19·6 per cent. annually. The average rate of increase, in the trade during the last ten years, has been:

1877-78 to 1881-82 (five years) 2·73 per cent.
1882-83 to 1886-87 (five years) 1·73 per cent.

(d) This line formed a branch of the Northern Bengal State Railway up to 1st July 1884, when it was amalgamated with the Eastern Bengal Railway. The open mileage previous to this date is also included with that of the Eastern Bengal Railway.

(e) The first section of this line was opened in 1862. It belonged to a Guaranteed Company, but was surrendered to the Government on 1st April 1868. Up to 30th June 1884 it was worked together with the Diamond Harbour Line, as a Provincial State line, under the name "Calcutta and South-Eastern Railway."

(b) For the Official year ending 31st March.
(c) Estimated by dividing the total outturn by the number of acres under cultivation.
(d) "This figure is not accurate," but probably represents uncleaned cotton.
(e) The cultivation of cotton in Coorg is confined to a few small plots of land in the corners of fields in the Nanjarajapatna taluq, and is grown solely for private use.
(f) Figures for the Agricultural year ending August.

(a) No information available.
(b) For the Official year ending 31st March.
(c) The local authorities consider these figures untrustworthy.
(d) Estimated outturn.
(e) These are only the estimated quantities of cotton consumed by the mills.
(f) The total outturn of the Province is insufficient for local consumption, and cotton is imported to meet local demands.
(g) Nearly all the cotton grown in the Province is consumed locally.
(h) The local consumption has been estimated by adding to the outturn the amount of cotton imported (30,563 cwts.) and deducting the amount exported.
(i) The estimated local consumption has been obtained by deducting the amount exported from the total outturn.
(j) "Estimated by multiplying the number of acres under cultivation by the number of lbs. yielded by an acre."
(k) Calculated with the help of formulæ on the anna valuation for districts of the Bombay Presidency proper. For Sindh and Native States calculation made on the basis of the acre yield of the British districts.

(g) Under the Act duty was leviable only on imports into the Bombay Presidency, excluding Sindh. The duty was extended to imports into Sindh, by Notification No 174, dated 28th December 1877 (Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce). Under Notification No. 2346, dated 5th August 1875, as amended by Notification No. 15, dated 25th January 1878, duty was levied on imports from British Indian ports in the following cases only:—

(1) When the import was unprotected by a certificate to the effect that duty has been paid on the salt used in curing the fish.

(2) When the import was from Burma.

By Notification No. 3659, dated 13th November 1880, salted fish imported into any port in the Bombay Presidency or Sindh was exempted from duty.

(h) By Order No. 1093, dated 25th July 1868 (Financial Department).

NOTE (1).—Throughout this series, with the exception of table 22, the figures for Merchandise and Treasure include the Imports and Exports on account of Government.

(2).—For the years 1870-71 to 1873-74, revised figures have been included in all the tables in this series for Government treasure, and in tables Nos. 1 and 2 for Government stores only. As corrected details in regard to articles and countries for Government stores are not available, the revisions could not be carried out in the remaining tables, in which the totals of Merchandise for these years will consequently not be found to agree with those in tables Nos. 1 and 2.

(3).—The amounts for Bengal and Bombay up to 1852-53 are those for Calcutta and Bombay only, the subordinate Bengal and Bombay ports not being included.

(4).—Up to 1865-66, the figures in this series were taken from the returns presented to Parliament. But from 1866-67 a consolidated Volume of Trade Statistics for the whole of British India has been compiled from returns furnished monthly by Local Governments; and from this year the figures in tables 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, 10, and 12 have been taken from this consolidated account; while those for Merchandise in tables 5, 9, 11, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20, showing the trade of each province with certain foreign countries named, have been taken from the volumes published by Local Governments.

SUMMARY OF CONTENTS.

Part I.

CENSUS STATISTICS.

As these statistics have been specially treated in separate reports, it is unnecessary to summarise them here, and only a few remarks on the figures which give some indication of the material condition of the country are required.

There were 714,707 villages, townships, and cities in India in 1881, and 43,532,035 inhabited houses. The villages, townships, and cities were in the proportion of 0·52 to each square mile of territory, and the houses in the proportion of 32 to each square mile. Bengal had much the largest number of villages, &c., these amounting to 248,706 and being at the rate of 1·59 to the square mile. The North-Western Provinces came next, with 81,084 villages, &c., or 0·99 to the square mile. In Oudh there was one village, &c., to the square mile of area in the province. These are the three most densely populated provinces in the empire, the number of persons to the square mile being 470 in Oudh, 426 in Bengal, and 400 in the North-Western Provinces. Cochin, indeed, shews a population of 441 to the square mile in an area of 1,361 square miles, but in this small parcel of native territory it is only the port which belongs to the British Government.

In Bengal the number of houses to the square mile was 67, the houses containing an average of 6·32 persons. The North-Western Provinces had 59 houses to the square mile, with an average of 6·82 persons to the house, and Oudh 85 houses, with an average of 5·51 persons. The average number of persons to each house for all India was 5·83.

Out of the male population of 129,941,851 contained in India, 52,029,098, or 40 per cent., are returned as engaged in agriculture; 7,248,475, or 5·6 per cent., were labourers; 3,027,958, or 2·33 per cent., were in the service of Government or members of professions; 2,489,516, or 1·9 per cent., were engaged in domestic service and occupations; 49,248,645, or 38 per cent., were returned as "independent and non-productive, and unspecified;" 3,238,734, or 2·5 per cent., were in commerce; and 12,659,425, or 9·7 per cent., were in industrial occupations.

Thus, we find less than 12½ per cent. of the male population engaged in commercial and industrial pursuits, while 40 per cent. were directly engaged in agriculture, to which should be added probably the bulk of the labourers; and doubtless a large proportion of those returned in the "independent and non-productive" class were directly dependent on the land, though not actually employed in its cultivation.

The total area of the country in 1881 was 1,372,588 square miles; but the division into cultivable, cultivated and uncultivable land is so lacking in completeness, that it is not possible to say what relation these divisions bear to each other, except for some provinces.

Although there were altogether, in 1881, 714,707 towns and villages in India, in great part these are small collections of huts, hardly worthy of being even called villages. As many as 348,466 contained less than 200 inhabitants each, and 184,486 contained each a population varying between 200 and 500. Of towns, properly so called, the number is relatively very small for such a vast area. There were only 63 with a population exceeding 50,000, 123 with a population of from 20,000 to 50,000, and 388 with a population ranging between 10,000 and 20,000. In the first class of the 63, containing a population of upwards of 50,000 each, there were only 23 with a population exceeding 100,000, and of these 23 only 5 had a population each of more than 200,000, namely, Bombay, Calcutta with its suburbs, Madras, Hyderabad in the Deccan with its suburbs, including Secunderabad, and Lucknow. It is probable that Benares may have to be added to the list of towns containing over 200,000 inhabitants, for at the last census it was only 300 short of that number, and the city has increased largely in numbers of late years. In general the increase of the population of these large towns is noticeable, and in a few cases, such as Rangoon, quite remarkable. Some few towns fell off in population during the decade (Lucknow, Bhágalpur, Farukhabad, Mirzapur, and Monghyr); but whereas in 1871 there were only 45 towns in India with a population exceeding 50,000, the number had increased to 63 in 1881.

EMIGRATION.

The figures in these tables relate solely to emigration as carried on under the Emigration Laws, and take no account of the numbers who leave India as passengers in vessels, not having been recruited by Emigration Agencies for service in the Colonies; nor do they take account of pilgrims, of whom small, but uncertain, numbers settle out of India.

The number of emigrants from India during the ten years, 1878-79 to 1887-88, amounted to 144,053, making on an average an annual exodus of 14,405 persons. The proportion to the population is inappreciable, amounting to only about ·057 per mille. And it cannot be said that any, even of this very small number, quit the country with the intention of permanently establishing their domicile elsewhere. On the contrary, each of them leaves with the hope of returning with his savings to his native place in a few years. The hope is realised by about one out of every two emigrants, for the number of persons who returned during the last ten years amounted to only 70,862—an average of 7,086 yearly, or about one-half of the number who left India. The mortality amongst these people is high in some of the colonies to which they go, and of those who survive a substantial proportion elect to continue to work as free labourers in the colony after their term of indenture expires, and many of these never return to India. In Mauritius, for instance, there is now a considerable population of Indian settlers, and in Trinidad too the settled Indians are increasing in numbers.

There are five places in India from which emigration may legally be carried on—Calcutta, Bombay, Madras, and the two French settlements of Pondicherry and Karikal. From Bombay emigration was stopped many years ago, and, though the legal restriction has been removed, recruiting has never been resumed. The port of Calcutta is the most convenient for the shipment of emigrants drawn from the impoverished masses of the thickly populated provinces of Oudh and Behar, and the great bulk of emigration work is done at this port. Of the 6,451 persons who emigrated from India last year, 1887-88, no less than 5,444 were shipped from Calcutta, of whom almost the whole number was from the North-Western Provinces, Oudh and Behar. From Madras only 1,007 were shipped. There has been no emigration from Karikal and Pondicherry since 1883-84.

The destinations of last year's emigrants were as follows:—

To Trinidad	2,130 „
To Mauritius	110 „
To Natal	897 „
To Fiji	537 „

Emigration to Réunion and Cayenne has ceased under the orders of Government.

RAILWAYS.

At the end of 1887-88 there were 8,988¾ miles of State railways open for public traffic and 1,885¾ miles in progress; of Guaranteed and Assisted lines, there were 4,564¾ miles open for traffic and 181 miles in progress; in Native States there were 823½ miles open for traffic and 409½ miles in progress. The total mileage of all railways was—

14,377 miles open.
2,476¼ miles in progress.

The rate of progress in each of the last eleven years in opening out railway communications will be apparent from the following figures:—

1877-78	7,322¼ miles open.	1883-84	10,828¼ miles open.
1878-79	8,212 „	1884-85	12,000¼ „
1879-80	8,492¾ „	1885-86	12,375½ „
1880-81	9,308 „	1886-87	13,385¾ „
1881-82	9,892½ „	1887-88	14,377 „
1882-83	10,145½ „

The total earnings of the railways were ₹184,631,299, and their total expenses £91,237,580, which made 49·4 per cent. of the earnings, leaving a net profit of ₹93,393,719, of which ₹31,463,149 were contributed by the East Indian Railway alone. The net profits of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway were ₹21,226,120, of the North-Western Railway ₹5,707,542, of the Bombay-Baroda line ₹7,068,815, and the Rajputana-Malwa ₹8,125,472. These five lines with a total of 7,039 miles, about one-half of the whole open mileage, brought in nearly 79 per cent. of the aggregate net profits.

The total number of passengers carried on the lines has increased from 22,251,496 in 1873 to 90,186,110 in 1887. (These figures do not include season-ticket-holders.)

The number of tons of goods and minerals conveyed has increased from 4,084,748 in 1873 to 20,466,673 in 1887, and of live-stock from 448,928 head to 826,816 head.

The gross receipts from passenger traffic rose from ₹23,845,825 in 1873 to ₹60,283,498 in 1887; and from goods traffic the gross receipts were ₹46,148,630 in 1873 and ₹119,270,988 in 1887.

FORESTS.

In 1887-88 there were 58,353 square miles of forest demarcated and reserved by the State. The work of demarcating and reserving forest tracts has been pushed on with great vigour in recent years, and especially since 1877-78. In that year the demarcated area was only 17,705 square miles; in the following year (1878-79) it was raised by operations in the Central Provinces to 40,425 square miles. Those Provinces possess the largest area of reserved forest (20,052 square miles), and Bombay follows with 10,026 square miles. In Madras there are 7,265, in Lower Burma 5,091, in Bengal 4,987, in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh 3,726, in Assam 3,310, in the Punjab 1,535, and in Berar 1,107 square miles.

CHINCHONA CULTIVATION.

In the Government plantation in Sikkim there was, on the 31st March 1888, an area of 2,208 acres under cultivation, containing nearly 5 millions of trees, and there was in addition a stock of 480,000 seedlings and rooted cuttings in the nurseries available to be planted out. The outturn of bark collected during the year amounted to 290,410 lb. With the stock in hand at the commencement of the year there were 539,714 lb of bark available for manufacture during the year, of which 242,025 lb were issued to the Quinologist for manufacture and 1,070 lb sold to the Medical Department, the rest being stored. Of the febrifuge, 6,916 lb were produced at a cost of ₹12-13-10 per lb, and 1 lb of the superior crystalline febrifuge at a cost of ₹16-6-2 per lb; whilst 331½ lb of sulphate of quinine were, for the first time, produced at a cost of ₹19-5-0 per lb.

The quantity of febrifuge (ordinary and superior) disposed of by sale to the public and by issue to the Medical Department, has been as follows each year—

1882-83	8,901
1883-84	9,145
1884-85	7,152
1885-86	5,499
1886-87	5,885
1887-88	7,832

Of the trees in the plantation, the largest proportion (2,182,000) still consists of Chinchona succirubra; but these are giving place to the more valuable C. calisaya ledgeriana, of which there are now 1,464,100 trees permanently planted out. The hybrid chinchona numbers 1,002,100 trees which is a large increase over the preceding year (675,100). The other descriptions exist in small numbers only.

The Nilgiri Government plantations contained an area of 908 acres planted out, the number of trees at the end of 1887-88 amounting to 1,740,144, of which 1,013,073 were C. officinalis. The bark collected during the year amounted to 92,746 lb; 1,400 lb were issued to the Madras Medical Department, a stock of 244,968 lb being left at the end of the year.

Part V—concluded.

CHINCHONA CULTIVATION—concluded.

There is one other Government plantation at Thandoungyee in Lower Burma; it is a small one, containing only 49,500 trees, seedlings, and cuttings.

In regard to private chinchona plantations the information accessible is defective. What is known of them is that at the end of 1887-88 there were in—

TEA CULTIVATION.

The following table compares the acreage and yield in 1887 with those for 1875-76, the first year of the series entered in this volume:—

	1875-76.		1887.
	Acres.	Yield in lb.	Acres.	Yield in lb.
Assam and Cachar	87,307	20,028,890	211,079	68,451,180
Bengal	26,378	4,941,226	73,641	19,103,512
North-Western Provinces	4,363	631,182	8,280	1,569,771
Punjab	4,246	679,949	8,487	1,658,516
Madras	2,392	220,070	11,301	1,466,577
Lower Burma	150	25,000	15	2,526
Total	124,836	26,526,317	312,803	92,252,082

The acreage has increased by 151 per cent., and the whole outturn by 248 per cent. nearly. Comparing 1887 with 1886 the area increased by 5 per cent. and the yield by 12 per cent.

In Assam the principal planting districts are—

	Acres.
Cachar	54,995
Sibságar	47,566
Sylhet	40,082
Lakhimpur	30,430
Darrang	19,370
Nowgong	11,303
Kamrup	6,909

In Bengal about three-fifths of the cultivation are found in the Darjeeling district, which had 39,352 acres under tea in 1887; Jalpaiguri had 25,933 acres; Chittagong 4,176; Lohardugga 3,083; and Hazaribagh 969 acres.

In the North-Western Provinces there were 4,982 acres in the Dún, the rest being in Kumaun and Garhwál (3,298 acres).

In the Punjab tea is grown in Kangra (8,387 acres) and in the Simla district (100 acres).

TEA CULTIVATION—concluded.

In Madras there were 5,110 acres on the Nilgiris and 5,728 acres in Travancore. Elsewhere in that Presidency the industry is unimportant.

In Burma there is only one plantation of 15 acres in Tounghoo.

COFFEE CULTIVATION.

The figures are so defective that it is not possible to make any useful comparison with former years. In 1880 the whole area under mature plants was about 163,000 acres and the entire yield was about 33 million pounds. The industry made no progress for some years, and in fact rather fell away. But the figures shew an increase both in area and yield during the last four years:—

	1884. Acres.	1885. Acres.	1886. Acres.	1887. Acres.
Mysore	82,462	81,754	75,119	84,023

Bengal	9	9	10	10
	187,541	199,326	189,518	201,660

The total yield is reported to have been in these years 28, 35, 31½, and 38 million pounds respectively. Very good prices have been obtained for coffee in the European markets during the last year or two.

The area under cotton in Bengal is not known, agricultural statistics for that province being non-existent. It is, however, unimportant. Excluding this province, the total area under cotton in India is about 14½ million acres. The general decrease, except in the Punjab and the Native States in the Bombay Presidency, during the three preceding years, has during the last year under notice recovered everywhere, but cotton cultivation in the Punjab decreased considerably in the year.

In the six years between 1877-78 and 1882-83, the increase in acreage amounted to 54 per cent., but in 1883-84 nearly 500,000 acres were thrown out of cotton cultivation owing to low prices and a bad season. The following year was worse, being more or less marked by a diminution of cotton cultivation everywhere, except in the Bombay Native States, Oudh and Assam, resulting in a further total decrease of 955,481 acres. The year 1885-86 was hardly better, except in the Punjab, the Native States of Western India, and in the Madras Presidency, the net result being a recovery of only 263,406 acres on the figures of 1884-85. The recovery was more pronounced on the whole in 1886-87, the season having been more favourable.

The figures in the tables which state the yield, as well as the local consumption of each province, are manifestly untrustworthy, and comments upon them seem unnecessary.

COTTON MILLS.

There were 97 cotton mills at work in India in 1887-88, containing 18,840 looms and 2,375,739 spindles. They consumed about 283 million pounds of cotton in the year, and employed a daily average number of 80,515 persons, of whom, as far as details have been obtained, there were 46,406 men, 15,057 women, 12,403 young persons, and 2,949 children. The nominal capital of the mills worked by joint stock proprietary is returned at 90 million rupees; but there is no return of the capital of four mills worked by private proprietary, and probably the whole capital invested in this industry is not short of one hundred million rupees, or (in conventional exchange of 10 rupees to the pound) ten millions sterling.

Of the 97 mills, there were 72 in the Bombay Presidency, of which 50 are in the town and island of Bombay itself. There were six mills in Bengal, all in the vicinity of Calcutta; six in Madras, of which four are in the town of Madras; five in the North-Western Provinces, all at Cawnpore; one at Indore; three in the Central Provinces; three in Hyderabad (Nizam's Territory), one of which was under completion at the end of the year; and one in Mysore.

The following figures show the progress made in the construction of mills in each province in the last decade:—

	Number of mills.

The oldest of the Bombay mills was established in 1851, and between that date and 1870 there were but seven mills established. By 1875 there were 22 mills at work, and 18 more were added between that year and 1880. Ten more were started in 1881, 18 between that year and 1886, 4 in 1887 and 2 in January 1888. The last fourteen years have seen the creation of 57 out of the 72 mills now working in Bombay.

In Calcutta the oldest mill dates from 1864, the others being the creation of 1872, 1875, 1877, and 1878. Since that year the only addition has been an extension of the Shamnagar mills in 1883. At Cawnpore, one of the mills was established in 1871; the Indore mill was started in 1872; the first two mills in Madras date from 1874 and 1875 respectively.

Part X.

JUTE MILLS.

There were 25 jute mills at work at the end of the official year 1887-88, employing a daily average number of 56,007 persons, namely, 34,818 men, 11,660 women, 5,439 young persons, and 4,090 children. The mills contained 7,389 looms, 146,302 spindles, and worked up about 173,784 tons of jute. The nominal capital of the mills worked by joint stock companies is stated in the returns at nearly 30½ million rupees (£3,040,000 at the conventional exchange of 10 rupees to the pound); but the figures are not quite complete, as for four out of the 25 mills no returns of capital have been furnished. Probably about 3½ or 4 million rupees may be added to the total on account of these.

All but two of the mills are in Bengal, most of them in the vicinity of Calcutta. Of the two not in Bengal, one (a small one) is at Vizagapatam and the other at Cawnpore, where it commenced work during the year 1886.

The progress of the industry during the last ten years is shewn below:—

	1878-79.	1883-84.	1887-88.
Number of mills	21	23	28
Number of looms	4,645	6,139	7,389
Number of spindles	65,882	112,650	146,302

[Note.—Of the 28 mills mentioned here for 1887-88, 3 were not actually working in the year, two being in liquidation and one having been broken up and the machinery removed from Bombay to Calcutta.]

The two oldest mills date from 1857. From that time to 1872 four more were started. The three years, 1873 to 1875, saw the establishment of seven more mills. Five were established in the five years 1876—80, and since 1880 nine more have been started, besides a large extension since 1884-85 of working power in the mills by the addition of looms and spindles. Before 1872 there were but six jute mills in existence.

Part XI.

WOOLLEN MILLS.

There are four woollen mills—two at Cawnpore, one in the Punjab at Dhárriwál in the Gurdaspur district, and one at Bangalore. It is stated that another is about to be built in Bombay. One of the Cawnpore mills is a private concern; the other three are Joint Stock Companies, with an aggregate nominal capital of ₹1,800,000. The number of looms and spindles employed in 1887 by the three mills was 263 and 6,868 against 242 and 5,420 in 1886. The bulk of the fabrics made so far consists of blankets, great-coats for the police and native soldiery, and materials for servants' clothing. But the quality of the goods made has much improved in the last few years, and it may be expected that finer qualities of woollen clothing will be made in quantity within a short time.

Part XII.

PAPER MILLS.

There are nine paper mills, five in the Bombay Presidency, two in Bengal (both near Calcutta), one at Lucknow, and one at Gwalior. Of the nine, three are reported to be private concerns; the others have an aggregate nominal capital of ₹3,868,000. One of the mills in the Bombay Presidency has not been worked since 1883, and another, which was under construction in 1886, was closed after working for a short time during the year. The fibrous materials used for making paper are chiefly rags, babui and moonj grasses, rice straw, jute and hemp cuttings, and old jute bags and cloth. The quality of the papers made has much improved in recent years, and they have a large and increasing sale. The total value of the outturn, which was ₹1,779,954 in 1885 and ₹2,327,942 in 1886, reached to ₹2,586,446 in 1887, making an increase of 45·31 per cent. as compared with 1885.

Part XIII.

BREWERIES.

The quantity of beer brewed during 1887 amounted to 4,860,282 gallons, of which 2,637,531 gallons were bought by the Commissariat. The outturn of the breweries has increased to these figures from 1,522,769 gallons in 1878. The average purchases of the Commissariat for the last five years (1882—86) have amounted to 1,934,728 gallons yearly. The imports of English beer for Government in 1887-88 only amounted to 387,788 gallons. Nearly all the beer consumed by the troops in Northern India is Indian beer, and, now that the possibility of brewing in the plains has been established, its displacement of imported beer elsewhere is, so far at any rate as the troops are concerned, only a question of time. Within the last three years breweries have been started at Poona, Darjeeling, and Mandalay; and arrangements are in progress for brewing at Quetta and Râwal Pindi.

Part XIV.

COLLIERIES.

There were 105 collieries in Bengal in 1887 (of which, however, 43 were closed), 1 in the Punjab, 2 in the Central Provinces, 3 in Assam, and 1 in Central India, making 112 in all, of which 69 were being worked. The output of coal from the Bengal mines was reported as 1,319,090 tons; 128,981 tons were raised from the Central Provinces collieries (Mohpani and Warora); 89,302 tons from the Assam collieries, 15,497 tons from Umeria (Central India), and 7,523 tons from the Damdot colliery in the Punjab. The annual output from all the mines was as follows:—

1882	1,130,242	Tons.
1883	1,315,976	„
1884	1,397,818	„
1885	1,294,221	„
1886	1,388,487	„
1887	1,560,393	„

The total value of the output in 1887, calculated at the local wholesale selling prices, has been estimated at a little over ₹4,700,000.

The total number of persons employed at the mines is given as 28,438.

Part XV.

OTHER LARGE INDUSTRIES.

The table gives such particulars as are obtainable of most of the industries, other than those for which separate tables have been given, which are carried on upon an extensive scale. It still lacks completeness even as regards large industries which ought to find a place in the list, and it does not and cannot include the thousand industries which, though in the aggregate extensive enough, are practised on a small scale by men in their own houses or in small workshops.

The table includes:—

(1) Silk mills.—A silk mill at Bombay, and another in Calcutta (at Ultadanga in the suburbs), and various silk weaving factories in Bengal. These latter to a large extent weave tasar silk. They are owned and managed by natives, and do not employ European machinery and apparatus. The fabrics woven in the two mills are mainly intended for Burmese consumption.

(2) Filatures for the reeling of silk.—With the exception of two recently established in the Madras Presidency and one in the Dehra Dún, these are all established in Bengal.

(3) Rice mills.—Of these there are 39 in Lower Burma and three in Bengal.

(4) Timber mills.—Of these there are 36 altogether, one in Bombay, two in Madras, one in the Punjab, three in Assam, and 29 in Lower Burma.

(5) Indigo factories.—There are a great number of these in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, all owned by individuals singly or in partnership with others, but only two, one in Bengal and the other in the Punjab (the latter not stated in the return), are managed on the joint stock principle with limited liability. Great numbers are now owned and worked by natives, but these are still singly small factories. In the Madras Presidency also there are a great number of indigo factories, mostly small concerns. In the Punjab there are said to be 26 factories, and in Rajputana one.

The information connected with indigo factories is most defective, and the table must be taken more as an indication and suggestion of the extent of the industry than as a complete record.

(6) Coffee works.—These are reported to be 24 in number, all in Madras.

(7) Cotton presses.—There are great numbers of these in Madras, Bombay, Sind, Berar, the Nizam's Territory, the Central Provinces, Central India, and Rajputana, the North-Western Provinces, Punjab, and Burma.

(8) Jute presses.—All these are in Bengal.

(9) Lac factories.—There are 13 of these at Mirzapore in the North-Western Provinces. The number in Bengal is not fully stated; they are numerous, and, excepting the factory at Cossipore near Calcutta, in most cases small.

(10) Ice factories.—These are numerous, but the return is defective.

(11) Cutch factories.—Six in Burma.

(12) Oil mills and wells.—Incomplete. The expression of oil is largely carried on in various places, though the mills in most cases are small. The list does not include the petroleum wells in Upper Burma, the only wells as yet worked on anything like a large scale. Nor does it contain the new petroleum workings in Biluchistan.

(13) Soap factories.—Two, one at Meerut and the other in Bombay.

(14) Sugar works.—Four in Madras, one in Bombay; in Bengal, the large Cossipore factory, with a capital of one million rupees, and a number of small factories not mentioned; one—the extensive Rosa factory at Shahjehanpur—in the North-Western Provinces, with a capital of 1,600,000 rupees; one in the Punjab, and one at Bangalore.

(15) Tobacco farms.—The only entries under this head are the plantations belonging to Messrs. Begg, Dunlop & Co. at Poosa and Ghazipur, where tobacco is grown, cured, and manufactured after the American methods. Nine factories for the manufacture of cigars have been reported this year in Trichinopoly, and one in Malabar.

(16) Flour mills.—There are 58 of these, but the return is defective.

(17) Pottery.—This head includes only the Raniganj pottery works belonging to Messrs. Burn & Co. of Calcutta, and Messrs. Robson and Company's pottery at Lahore. The industry is very widespread, however, and is increasing. Art pottery is being produced in Bombay and other places, and native works turn out characteristic ware at Delhi, Multan, Aligarh, and elsewhere, though it cannot be said as yet that the work is done on a large scale.

(18) Stone and lime.—One quarry is entered, that of the Rajmehal Stone Company, with a capital of 250,000 rupees, and 21 lime quarries in Assam. There is a slate quarry at work in Kangra, which has not been entered.

(19) Tile manufactories.—Twelve tile manufactories, of which nine in the Madras Presidency, one in Coorg, one in the Hyderabad Territory, and one in Mysore.

(20) Iron and brass foundries.—These are numerous and scattered over Bombay, Sindh, Madras, Bengal, the N.-W. Provinces, the Punjab and Burma.

(21) Rope works.—Nine are entered, of which four in the Madras Presidency and five in Bengal; two of these being at Howrah near Calcutta, and three at Hooghly. The works at Howrah are owned and managed by Europeans, and produce rope and cordage fit for all marine and other uses. Native rope works are very common, but they are small and the rope inferior.

(22) Tanneries.—Sixty-four of these are returned, of which 31 are in Madras and 26 in Sindh, two at Calcutta, and two at Cawnpore. The leather works at Calcutta and Cawnpore are important and attaining increased dimensions.

(23) Cement manufactories.—Only one cement work is reported, located in Madras.

(24) Saltpetre manufactories.—There are hundreds of these, worked by natives on a small scale, in Behar and the North-Western Provinces.

(25) Bone-crushing factories.—One at Bombay, two in Bengal near Calcutta (not stated), two in Malabar and one at Coimbatore.

Part XVI.

JOINT STOCK COMPANIES.

The total number of companies registered in India under the law amounts to 1,861. Of these, 910 were working at the end of 1887-88, the others having either wound up or otherwise discontinued business, or never commenced it, so that about every second joint stock company started has been a failure. The nominal capital of the companies at work is stated at 302⅔ million rupees, the paid-up capital being 223¼ million rupees or, say, 225 million, allowing for defective returns. This is an increase in paid-up capital of nearly 9½ million rupees in the year.

The largest part—96 million paid-up—of the aggregate capital is invested in mills and presses chiefly for working or pressing cotton, jute, wool, and silk. The greater number of these are registered in Bombay, that Presidency representing under this head a paid-up capital of 66⅓ million, or about two-thirds of the whole, most of it invested in cotton mills and presses. A sum of over 19⅓ million represents the paid-up capital invested in mills and presses registered in Bengal, their working being mainly limited to jute.

In tea, coffee, and other plantations, 36⅓ million rupees of paid-up capital are invested, of which over 34½ million are held in Bengal, most of the tea companies being registered in Calcutta.

The paid-up capital invested in banking or loan companies amounts to 34 million rupees, of which 17⅓ million are in companies registered in Bengal and 9⅓ million in Madras. A very large number of these so-called banks are small native money-lending concerns chiefly in Madras and Mysore, the shareholders ordinarily not exceeding a score in number, and the capital varying from 10,000 to 30,000 rupees.

Trading companies have a paid-up capital of 34 million, of which nearly 9 million are invested in coasting and river steamer companies, nearly 7 million in railways and tramways, and 17⅓ million are owned by "merchants and traders," a considerable proportion of this latter sum being invested in retail shops and stores to which the principle of limited liability has been somewhat extensively applied in India, especially in Bombay.

The capital of mining and quarrying companies is 10 million paid-up, of which 8 million are invested in companies registered in Bengal, about 6 million being invested in coal mining companies in that province.

The other industries individually represent much smaller sums; thus ice-making employed a little below 2 million paid-up, chiefly in Bombay and Bengal; breweries, 1⅕ million paid-up, all in the Punjab and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.

The subjoined table gives a general view of the progress made since 1884-85. The number of companies has increased by about 30·8 per cent. and the paid-up capital by 8 per cent. in 1887-88 as compared with 1884-85, the average rate of increase of investment in joint stock enterprise being thus only about 2 per cent. annually:—

Part XVII.

In 1887-88, 33,117,688 maunds of salt paid duty, the duty realised amounting (exclusive of miscellaneous receipts) to ₹63,712,454, the quantity being 1·94 per cent. less and the duty 0·20 per cent. more than in the previous year. This diminution was the result of the increase of the salt tax, which was raised on the 19th January 1888 from ₹2 to ₹2½ per maund and immediately affected the quantity passing into consumption. Twenty years previously, in 1868-69, the first year for which the returns are given in their present form, the quantity of salt excised amounted to 22,733,359 maunds, and the revenue to ₹54,640,640. The quantity which entered into consumption therefore increased in this period by 45·70 per cent., being at an average rate of 2¼ per cent. yearly. The revenue has risen during the same period by only 16½ per cent. During this period the duty was gradually reduced in Bengal and Northern India from ₹3-4 and ₹3 a maund respectively to ₹2, the rate fixed in March 1882. The duty in Madras and Bombay was raised from ₹1-13 to ₹2-8 in 1877, then reduced to ₹2 in March 1882. The duty was raised for all India to ₹2-8 from 19th January 1888, and on the same date the duty in Burma was raised from three annas to one rupee (sixteen annas) a maund.

The subjoined table shows the progress in consumption in recent years. In the five years ending with 1877-78, the increase compared with the consumption in the preceding period was very small, hardly exceeding an annual average of one per cent. In the next five years (ending 1882-83), the rate of increase was nearly 3 per cent. yearly. In the last five years (ending 1887-88), consumption again increased, the average annual rate being over 3 per cent.—a rate much in excess of the rate of increase in the population. The great advance in consumption in this last period must be attributed mainly to (1) the reduction of duty in March 1882 to the moderate rate of ₹2; (2) the reduction in cost of transit effected by the substitution of railways for pack-bullocks and carts; (3) the energetic reforms in the last five years in the administration of the salt revenue in the Madras Presidency which practically stopped the illicit manufacture of salt there.

The falling off in 1885-86 in Northern India was due to exhaustion of stocks which it was impossible to replenish, manufacture having been rendered impossible by reason of rain at the Sambhar Lake during the manufacturing season. The place of that salt was taken for the time by Bombay salt.

CUSTOMS REVENUE.

These tables shew the amount of customs duty realised on each article imported and exported since 1873-74. In 1869-70, the revenue on imports was £1,749,903, with a general rate of duty of 7½ per cent. ad valorem. In 1887-88, the revenue was £564,261, the only duties remaining on the tariff schedule being those on liquors, arms, opium (the latter giving a nominal revenue as the duty is meant to be prohibitory), and petroleum. Salt is separately treated and is excluded from these figures.

The revenue from exports in 1869-70 was £480,191, a great many articles being then subject to taxation: cotton manufactures, indigo, rice, wheat and other grains, tanned and dressed hides and skins, lac, oils, seeds, spices, and shawls. In 1887-88 the revenue was £756,499 derived from rice alone, all other articles being free.

The tables give a general view of the duties levied under various Tariff Acts since 1859, and contain classified lists of the articles which are now dutiable and not dutiable on import and export, shewing for each how it was treated under each tariff schedule framed since 1859.

FOREIGN TRADE AND SHIPPING.

The volume concludes with a series of tables shewing, for various periods extending in many cases back to 1834-35, the progress of the foreign sea-borne trade of India, for the whole country, for each province separately, and for the principal articles of trade and principal foreign countries, as well as the progress of shipping. These supplement the annual accounts of the foreign trade which exhibit the progress of the trade for only five years. As the trade of India is fully reviewed separately every year, it is not necessary to offer a summary of these tables here. It is sufficient perhaps merely to state the fact that the value of the trade has risen in the 54 years, 1834-35 to 1887-88, from £14,342,290 to £170,978,747, the increase being nearly twelve-fold, making on the average a rate of 20·2 per cent. annually. The average rate of increase in the trade during the last twenty years has been:

(a) Information not available.
(b) Estimated by dividing the total outturn by the number of acres under cultivation.
(c) "This figure is not accurate," but probably represents uncleaned cotton.
(d) The cultivation of cotton in Coorg is confined to a few small plots of land in the corners of fields in the Nanjarajapatna taluq, and is grown solely for private use.
(e) Figures for the Agricultural year ending August.

(a) Information not available.
(b) These are only the estimated quantities of cotton consumed by the mills in the whole presidency.
(c) The total outturn of the Province is insufficient for local consumption, and cotton is imported to meet local demands.
(d) Nearly all the cotton grown in the Province is consumed locally.
(e) The estimated local consumption has been obtained by deducting the amount exported from the total outturn.
(f) "Estimated by multiplying the number of acres under cultivation by the number of lbs. yielded by an acre."
(g) Calculated with the help of formulæ on the anna valuation for districts of the Bombay Presidency proper. For Sindh and Native States calculation made on the basis of the acre yield of the British districts.

(a) These two mills are the property of one Joint Stock Company. The business was wound up in 1874, and the liabilities, assets, &c., transferred to the present Company.

(b) These two mills are the property of one Joint Stock Company.

(c) Figures for 1886-87, those for 1887-88 not being available.

(d) This mill was private property up to 17th January 1888, when it was taken over by a Joint Stock Company.

(e) Mill purchased by present proprietors in December 1887. This figure, therefore, represents only three months consumption of cotton.

(f) Mill closed, the Company having gone into liquidation.

(g) Mill started only recently.

* No information available. † Included with All Other Articles. ‡ See head "Naval Stores."

(a) Duty included under "Stationery" for the years previous to 1875-76.
(b) Fruits and Vegetables, dried, salted, or preserved, are classed under the head "Fruits and Vegetables" up to 1874-75, and under "Provisions" from 1875-76.
(c) In the Financial Accounts the duty collected on Salt is entered under "Salt," not under Customs. This duty is included in the General Table of the Indian Salt Revenue, Part XVII of this Volume.
(d) The figures for the years previous to 1875-76 include articles used in the consumption of Tobacco, which cannot be separately distinguished.
(f) These articles were freed from duty from 20th March 1878. These sums were either charged on importations prior to that date, or levied erroneously.
(g) Includes Customs realisations £20 in 1880-81 and £30 in 1881-82, at Bilimora and Nausári ports in the Gáekwár's Territory.
(h) Includes Customs realisations on articles imported prior to the 10th March 1882.
(i) Articles comprised under "Passengers' Baggage" have since 1884-85 been distributed against the respective articles.
(j) The figures represent duty collected on Kerosine which has been made dutiable by Act II of 1888.

NOTE 1.—ALL IMPORTS INTO BRITISH INDIA WERE FREED FROM THE 10TH MARCH 1882, WITH THE EXCEPTION OF ARMS AND AMMUNITION, LIQUORS, OPIUM, AND SALT. FROM THE 10TH FEBRUARY 1888 PETROLEUM HAS BEEN SUBJECT TO DUTY.

„ 2.—FOR INFORMATION REGARDING THE RATES OF DUTY LEVIED ON EACH ARTICLE, AND THE ARTICLES COMING UNDER CERTAIN HEADS WHICH HAVE AT DIFFERENT PERIODS BEEN FREE OF DUTY, AND FOR OTHER INFORMATION REGARDING THE TARIFFS, SEE TABLES 3 AND 5 IN THIS PART.

NOTE (1).—Throughout this series, with the exception of Table 14, the figures for Merchandise and Treasure include the Imports and Exports on account of Government.

(2).—For the years 1870-71 to 1873-74, revised figures have been included in all the tables in this series for Government treasure, and in Tables Nos. 1 and 2 for Government stores only. As corrected details in regard to articles and countries for Government stores are not available, the revisions could not becarried out in the remaining tables, in which the totals of Merchandise for these years will consequently not be found to agree with those in Tables Nos. 1 and 2.

(3).—The amounts for Bengal and Bombay up to 1852-53 are those for Calcutta and Bombay only, the subordinate Bengal and Bombay ports not being included.

(4).—Up to 1865-66, the figures in this series were taken from the returns presented to Parliament. But from 1866-67 a consolidated volume of Trade Statistics for the whole of British India has been compiled from returns furnished monthly by Local Governments; and from this year the figures in Tables 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, 8, 10, and 12 have been taken from this consolidated account; while those for Merchandise in Tables 5, 9, 11, showing the trade of each province with certain foreign countries named, have been taken from the volumes published by Local Governments.
